'Ham and Eggs' Rejected By Ohio, California Voters

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—For the second time California voters have refused to serve "ham and eggs" pensions to the state's oldsters. Sponsors of the pension plan answered the smashing 2 to 1 defeat by voting today to recall Governor Culbert L. Olson for opposing their proposal and bring the measure up for a third vote.

Every one of California's 58 counties voted down the measure in yesterday's polling, including Los Angeles, birthplace of many old-age pension schemes.

Returns from 10,176 of the state's 11,165 precincts showed only 831,310 voting for the plan, to 1,621,751 against it, compared with the 250,000 margin by which it was defeated a year ago.

By the same two-to-one margin, the same two-to-one margin to liberalize the chiropractic law, and approved two legislative bills regulating "loan sharks."

A proposal to regulate gas production was defeated by a decisive vote, Mayor Angelo J. Rossi of San Francisco won a third four-year term in a nonpartisan election.

Wills Allen, campaign director for the pension scheme, and Roy G. Owens, who was to have been its administrator, jointly announced recall petitions against the governor would be started at once.

"Olson, who was elected by ham and eggs, has repudiated the people," they said.

The widely-discussed plan would have provided pension warrants of $30 face value weekly for all unemployed over 50 years old. It contemplated a 2 per cent weekly stamp tax to finance the warrants, which were supposed to circulate as money. The plan would have required extensive economic and taxation changes. Opponents said it would mean financial chaos, state bankruptcy and economic dictatorship.

Governor Olson, expressing gratification over its defeat, asserted the outcome would encourage the speedy development of better social security methods in California. He is formulating a "production for need" program for the unemployed.

NEW YORK (AP)—Pension plans combining increased grants to the aged with unorthodox methods of raising the money were rejected yesterday by top-heavy majorities in Ohio and California.

In the other off-year elections throughout the United States, New York voters sanctioned parliament race betting and gave Tammany control of county jobs, while Kentucky chose a Democratic governor. None of the contests for office held national political significance.

Ohio ballots snowed under the pension proposal advocated by Herbert S. Bigelow, Cincinnati clergyman, to assure income of $50 a month to those past 60. The plan, which called for a state income tax and a levy on valuable real estate, was defeated by a margin of more than three to one.

Returns from 8,030 of 8,589 precincts gave 418,078 for the pension plan and 1,393,615 against it. Bigelow announced a new proposal even before all the ballots killing the old one were counted.

In Kentucky Governor Keen Johnson, Democrat, was elected to the office he reached through the recent resignation of Governor A. B. Chandler, who entered the United States Senate. His Republican opponent was Circuit Judge King Swope.

A Tammany triumph in county races in New York City marked a change in sentiment in the metropolis, where the organization had been losing in recent years.

New York Republicans were victorious, however, in an up-state congressional race. Edwin Arthur Hall, Republican, defeated John V. Johnson, Democrat and American Labor Party.

former New York Governor and 1938 Democratic candidate for the Presidency, will not know the outcome of his first bid for public office for perhaps 10 days.

Young Smith, strongly supported in pre-election stumping by his "Happy Warrior" father, ran for the city council. The vote counting started this morning.

BOOKIES LOSE

The only state-wide issue in New York's election was the proposal to permit machine wagering at the five horse race tracks in the state. Heretofore, such wagering has been placed with bookmakers. The vote favoring the pari-mutuels was better than two to one. It means the end for the bookies.

The Philadelphia mayoral race, won by Robert L. Lamberton, Republican, attracted particular attention for that reason. Lamberton defeated Robert C. White, Democrat, and his partisans acclaimed the victory as pointing the way to a Republican victory in the state next year.

Crowd Seizes Mine, Kills Man

GREENVILLE, Ky. (AP)—One man was killed and the president of a coal corporation was wounded today in a clash at a coal mine, 15 miles west of Greenville, in which 250 to 300 armed men were reported to have taken possession of the mine property.

Robert Brown, 54, of White City, Ky., construction superintendent for the Hart coal corporation, was killed.

Brent Hart, president of the company, which operates other mines in adjacent Hopkins County, was wounded in the left thigh.

The mine, a new operation, is not yet producing coal.

Britain Has Great Surprise for Hitler

LONDON (CP)—Great Britain countered Adolf Hitler's claim of a new secret weapon today with the statement that "we certainly have got a surprise for him."

The director of scientific research, whose name was withheld from publication, told a press conference that any dictator who thought scientists had given him the most devastating weapons possible would be making a silly mistake.

Six months before the war started, he continued, teams of key scientists were organized to deal with any emergency so that "if a surprise was sprung on us" quick answer could be given.

He concluded: "There are certain methods of warfare which have not been adopted, perhaps for humane considerations. That reservation might break down and Britain must be prepared."

Boom Logs Scattered In English Bay

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 50-mile gale which swept over the British Columbia lower mainland last night and early today broke up a log boom in English Bay and swept a 30-foot gillnet fishing boat ashore near the English Bay beach.

The logs broken loose from the boom were blown across the bay and for a time threatened a patrol boat on duty at the entrance to Vancouver harbor.

Floats of the Kitsilano Yacht Club and the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club were damaged and a yacht driven ashore on Kitsilano beach.

Japanese Guns Force Down British Airliner

HONGKONG (AP)—The British Imperial Airways liner Dardanus was forced down yesterday on the Japanese-occupied island of Walchow, off the South China coast, and unofficial French reports today said Japanese gunfire compelled her to alight.

Her passengers were O. Cuevas, Puerto Rican employee of the Intercontinental Corporation of New York; two Britons, a Norwegian and an Iranian (Persian); British officials are investigating.

The Dardanus, piloted by an Australian named Wilson, was en route from Hongkong to Hanoi, French Indo-China. Walchow is 200 miles northeast of the latter. The report of gunfire came from nearby Fort Bayard in the French Kwangchowwan leased territory.

NO DICTATED PEACE, SAYS BRITISH LABOR

By J. F. SANDERSON

LONDON (CP)—The Labor Party issued a war aims manifesto today, outlining six principles which the party said should form the basis of any peace settlement.

Clement Attlee, leader of the parliamentary Labor Party, presented the program to a meeting of Labor members of Parliament while the nation discussed the offer of Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands and King Leopold of the Belgians to mediate between Germany and the Allies.

The manifesto emphasized the reconstruction of Poland and Czechoslovakia, and some form of federation for Europe. The prime requisite to any peace settlement, it declared, would be a government in Germany which could be trusted.

The six "principles for peace" were laid down as follows:

1. No dictated peace.
2. Recognition of the right of all nations to live and develop their own characteristic civilizations provided they do not infringe on others.
3. Complete abandonment of aggression and armed force.
4. Recognition of the rights of national, racial and religious minorities.
5. Recognition of an international authority superior to individual states.
6. Abandonment of Imperialism.

PEACE MOVE BASED ON NAZI REQUEST?

BRUSSELS (CP-Havas)—Foreign Minister Paul Henri Spaak, who accompanied King Leopold to The Hague on the trip which ended in the Belgian-Netherlands peace appeal, today received Baron P. B. Van Slooten, minister from the Netherlands; Otto Krag, minister from Denmark; and Michael Mosicki, Polish minister.

Spaak reported to the Belgian cabinet last night. An official communiqué said simply that Spaak gave a full account of his visit to the Netherlands capital with King Leopold and submitted a review of the international situation in general.

Belgian political quarters, puzzled over the meaning of the latest peace appeal by Leopold and Wilhelmina, and frankly skeptical of its chances of success, offered the two following hypotheses:

1. The Netherlands for the first time feels itself seriously threatened and has decided that from the standpoint of both home and foreign opinion it would be a good move to make it clear that up to the last moment it has done everything in its power to stay out of the war and hasten its end.

2. The two rulers acted in response to a more or less pressing request from Germany.

The latter explanation appeared to find some strength in the tone of Nazi propaganda broadcasts protesting violently against the neutrals' allegedly supine acceptance of the blockade conditions laid down by Great Britain.

Slight Optimism On Peace Move

THE HAGUE (AP)—Official circles hinted today that King Leopold of Belgium and Queen Wilhelmina of The Netherlands might follow up their offer to serve as peace mediators with diplomatic contacts in Berlin, London and Paris.

While these circles would not speculate on the probable outcome of the dramatic peace appeal delivered last night by the two sovereigns to Great Britain, France and Germany, an atmosphere of moderate but cautious optimism was apparent here.

It was conceded that this optimism was based on the belligerent powers' apparent reluctance to initiate major offensives rather than on any reaction produced thus far by the mediation offer.

If the offer is not rejected outright, government circles said, it might be possible to make careful contacts with the belligerents and thus give them further time to express their views.

Although initiative for advancing the mediation proposals was credited to King Leopold, informed quarters said Queen Wilhelmina could be expected to take an active hand in any diplomatic negotiations that might be conducted.

Massey Hospital Plans Studied

OTTAWA (CP)—An offer from Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner in London, and Mrs. Massey, as trustees of the Massey Foundation, to equip and maintain a convalescent hospital for use of the Canadian expeditionary force, is receiving "futile consideration," it was learned today.

Mr. and Mrs. Massey conveyed their offer to the Canadian government, and it has since been turned over to the Defence Department for consideration.

CANADA'S IMPORTS PAID IN STERLING

OTTAWA (CP)—Only sterling may be sold by authorized dealers to pay for imports from any part of the British Empire, the foreign exchange control board announced today.

If for special reasons another form of exchange is required for such imports a special permit must be obtained from the board.

Another new rule announced by the board is as follows: When foreign exchange is sold for remittance to non-residents of income originally arising in Canada dollars, the foreign currency to be sold shall be that of the country of residence of the recipient.

Sharp California Quake

GRASS VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—Nevada County residents picked up broken chinaware and bricks from their chimneys today after a sharp earthquake at 7:25 last night.

The tremor was accompanied by a report resembling an explosion, and started miners working far underground. Steel head frames of gold mines were set into violent vibration.

There was no report of injury or serious damage.

Lansbury Appeals To Roosevelt

LONDON (CP)—George Lansbury, veteran Labor M.P., cabled President Roosevelt today:

"I implore your powerful support of King Leopold and Queen Wilhelmina in their noble effort for immediate conference to end disastrous war. Common people everywhere desire your aid to insure just and tolerable peace."

Mr. Lansbury said he sent the cable on his individual responsibility and that "this is not a proposal that Mr. Roosevelt should involve himself or his country in the actual negotiations."

Propaganda Planes Fired On Over Paris

PARIS (AP)—Two unidentified planes were reported by military sources today to have been fired on when they dropped propaganda leaflets on the Paris region in early morning darkness yesterday.

The leaflets bore parts of the October 31 speech of Premier Vyacheslav Molotov of Russia in which he notified the world that Russia was drawing closer to Germany.

It was not determined whether the planes were German or French planes flown by French communists. From the nature of the printing, French quarters decided the pamphlets were printed in Germany.

Ban Off 3 Magazines

OTTAWA (CP)—The National Revenue Department announced today that three United States magazines, previously banned from Canada, will be permitted entry into the country beginning with the January, 1940, issues. They are Inside Detective and Personal Romances, both published in New York, and Romantic Story, published in Louisville, Ky.

POPE TO BROADCAST

OTTAWA (CP)—It was announced today Pope Pius would deliver a broadcast address in English next Monday (9 a.m. P.S.T.) in connection with the 50th anniversary of the founding of Catholic University, Washington, D.C.

Speed Mail for Troops

LONDON (CP)—Countering criticism of the postal service to British troops, War Secretary Leslie Hore-Belisha told the House of Commons that high post office officials had gone to France to study ways and means of improving the service.

"It is generally reported now that the system is extremely efficient," the minister said.

Ontario Business Mounts

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Railway freight business in western Ontario has jumped an estimated 20 to 25 per cent in the past two months. Divisional point for the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railways. It is estimated railway employment in this district has reached a peak not equaled in the past 10 years.

Claim Neglect Of Volunteers

TORONTO (CP)—The Welfare Council of Toronto and district, in a statement, accused the Ontario government of interfering with recruiting by neglecting to provide food and shelter for jobless and penniless men who have gathered here to join the army.

The statement told of the plight of "a large number of unemployed and homeless young men" who had tried, in September, to enlist and had been told the lists were all full but to return in November. The men returned to Toronto November 1, but were told the provincial welfare department had decreed no applications for relief should be listened to after October 31. The men said they were not aware of this but were told to get food and shelter from "charitable people," the statement said.

The statement also described a provincial government decree that every man seeking relief must prove he has tried to enlist in the army as "an attempt of doubtful legality, to force conscription on the most defenceless group in the country."

Hon. Eric Cross, Ontario minister of welfare, said in comment on the statement, that the province is "taking care of all single unemployed men with residence in Ontario and of transients from other parts of Canada who came here to enlist."

"The province is not contributing relief to transients from other provinces who have not seen fit to offer their services to their country," he added. "These are surely cases for private welfare agencies which have taken care of them in the past."

Want Unfit Men Returned Home

VANCOUVER (CP)—A resolution urging the British Columbia government to assist those who failed in efforts to join military units to return to their homes has been passed by the central executive committee of the Housewives' League.

The resolution states many men who came to Vancouver to enlist were unfit for military duty and are now stranded with no means of support.

Swedish Baptists Meet in Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—Swedish Baptist Church ministers from British Columbia cities and from Montana, Idaho, Oregon, and Washington will attend the first semiannual convention of the Columbia conference every held in Vancouver Thursday to Sunday. Visiting pastors will assist Sunday in the dedication of a new Swedish Baptist Mission building. Rev. Gordon Carlson of Bellingham, Wash., conference president, will preside at opening services.

Artillery Leader Named

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—Major J. H. Roberts, officer commanding A battery of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, will command the first brigade of field artillery in the First Canadian Division, it is announced officially.

Major Roberts assumes the rank of lieutenant-colonel with the appointment. Col. C. V. Stockwell of Kingston commands the first divisional artillery.

TURKISH ASSEMBLY RATIFIES PACT

ANKARA (CP-Havas)—The Turkish National Assembly today unanimously ratified the Anglo-Franco-Turkish mutual assistance pact.

The pact, signed at Ankara October 19, pledges Anglo-French assistance to Turkey in the event of aggression against her or the outbreak of war in the Mediterranean leading to Turkish involvement.

Turkey pledged itself to aid Britain and France should they be involved in a Mediterranean war or in operations required by the Anglo-French pledge to Rumania and Greece.

Turkey, however, was exempted from any obligation to take up arms against Soviet Russia.

Purvis Directs U.S. Buying for Britain

OTTAWA (CP)—Appointment of Arthur B. Purvis, prominent Montreal industrialist, as director-general of British war purchases in the United States, has been announced by the British purchasing mission which has been in Ottawa since early September.

The announcement was contained in a statement identical with one issued in London some hours earlier regarding creation of the British supply board in Canada and the United States to co-ordinate war purchases on this continent.

Mr. Purvis is head of Canadian Industries Limited and was a former chairman of the National Employment Commission which completed its work two years ago.

Decision of the British government, in co-operation with the Canadian War Supply Board, of which Wallace R. Campbell is chairman, to set up purchasing facilities in the United States, follows the course of action generally predicted.

It has already been expressed as a matter of British policy that Canada will be looked on as a first and primary source of supply to the full extent of the manufacturing and industrial capacity of the Dominion.

But from the start of hostilities it has been a foregone conclusion that if the United States altered its neutrality law to permit sale of arms and war supplies to the belligerents steps would be taken immediately by the Allies to make use of that source.

CO-ORDINATION

WASHINGTON (AP)—Great Britain and France will co-ordinate their war purchases in the United States, eliminating competition between them, the British embassy announced here.

It is estimated unofficially the Allies are ready to place $1,000,000,000 in war orders here in the near future.

Want Park Retained

EDMONTON (CP)—Protests against closing of Wainwright Buffalo Park and the slaughter of all animals there, ordered by the Dominion government, are being made here.

L. E. Wize, president of the Alberta Fish and Game Association, and G. J. Helte, president of the Northern Alberta Fish and Game Protective League, both said they had telegraphed protests to Ottawa.

U.S. Defence Tax Ratio Mounts

WASHINGTON (AP)—An average of more than $1 a month for every man, woman and child in the United States is being assessed against the taxpayers these days for national defence.

That is the premium the United States pays for what it hopes will prove insurance against invasion.

The army's share amounts to only 6.69 per cent of the national budget for the 1940 fiscal year, but the premium is going up.

It surged upward from 5.09 for last year, but the significant rise appeared in another figure. The percentage of the national budget appropriated for army fighting equipment leaped from 1.22 in fiscal year 1939 to 4.59 for the current fiscal year.

For the most part, the army is spending its share of the dollar-a-month insurance premium for things which, either in quantity or quality, it never had before.

Among them are:

329 10-ton (light) tanks and a smaller number of medium tanks at a price of $18,000 each for the small ones.

3,500 airplanes at a total cost of $210,000,000, including heavy bombers at about $250,000 each.

338 anti-aircraft rifles, $20,000 each, plus extensive equipment.

228 anti-tank guns, $5,000 each.

65,000 Garand semi-automatic rifles.

An undisclosed number of huge seacoast defence guns.

The cost of modern war machines increases in proportion to quality and complexity. A flimsy fighting plane once cost $6,000 to $10,000, but today's air battleship may run as high as $400,000.

The United States' protective force now numbers 175,000 regular army men (whom the taxpayer, incidentally, hires at about $1,000 a year apiece) and 200,000 National Guard members. With accelerated recruiting, the initial force soon will total 462,000, and eventually may be expanded to 600,000.

CANADA TO BUILD TORPEDO BOATS

TORONTO (CP)—Motor torpedo boats of great speed and range will soon be under construction in Canada for the British Navy, according to Hubert Scott-Paine, famed motorboat driver and designer of the craft.

Canadian factories have had the blueprints for a few weeks, and the machinery for putting out the craft is being quickly assembled. But there will be no launchings for several months yet.

The British designer could not say how many of the fleet 70-foot craft will be built in Canada. The vessel, which he hopes will wipe out the submarine menace, draws only three feet of water and cannot be mined or torpedoed.

The crew, seven men and an officer, can live aboard at sea in any weather, and the boat has a cruising range of more than 2,000 miles at a patrolling speed of nine knots. Running at 22 knots, its cruising radius is more than 1,000 miles.

Its top speed is well over 40 knots, Scott-Paine said, and it is armed with four eighteen-inch torpedoes.

Little Interest In Edmonton Election

EDMONTON (CP)—Only six public offices were at stake in Edmonton's civic voting today, and only nine candidates sought the posts after an uninteresting campaign, with two candidates for mayor and seven for five aldermanic vacancies.

For mayor, electors cast ballots for John W. Fry, mayor for the past two years, or S. A. G. Barnes, Independent Social Credit member of the Alberta Legislature for Edmonton.

Careless Shooting

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP)—A coroner's jury yesterday found that Cyril Skeeles of nearby Cedar, B.C., was killed on September 4 "by a gunshot carelessly fired by his hunting companion, Lodwick (Pete) Minarik."

After being warned by Deputy Coroner W. H. Jones that anything he said might be used as evidence against him Minarik, 23-year-old friend of the dead youth, said that he "shot Skeeles in mistake for a deer."

British Bury 5 Germans

LONDON (CP)—Five German sailors whose bodies were cast up on the Kent coast last week were buried with military honors yesterday in the cemetery of a British garrison. The coffins were draped with two German flags—the old Imperial flag and the Nazi swastika banner.

COAL INDUSTRY TO BE LICENSED

OTTAWA (CP)—The entire Canadian coal and coke industry will be subject to government licensing December 1, according to an announcement by the wartime prices and trade board, whose chairman is Hector B. McKinnon.

No company or individual will be permitted to operate without a license, with the order applying to manufacturers, importers, exporters, producers, jobbers, wholesalers and retailers of coal and coke, which includes all types of coal, including lignite, and all cokes, including those manufactured from petroleum.

The licensing plan will be administered by J. McG. Stewart, Canadian coal administrator, and his technical adviser, Frank G. Neate.

The license system has been adopted "to keep the government adequately informed of the situation surrounding the production, importation and distribution of coal; to assure an adequate distribution of coal, and to protect the public against any undue advance in price," the announcement said.

The coal administrator will be able to make necessary arrangements for the 1940-41 import of coal from overseas and elsewhere, it was pointed out.

"From December 1, coal and coke dealers, importers and exporters and producers will all report to the administrator the amount of coal and coke on hand or in transit; the quantities sold or distributed each month; the prices charged, and any further information which the board may require," the board stated.

Drinking Water Boiled

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Dr. George Parrish, city health commissioner, is urging Los Angeles residents to boil their drinking water until the source of infection that has caused 39 cases of typhoid fever in the city since July 1 has been determined.

New Ontario Airports

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. F. J. Conboy, acting mayor, said today he believed at least 25 new airports will be constructed shortly in Ontario in connection with proposed Empire air training scheme to be carried out in Canada.

Press Event Postponed

TORONTO (CP)—The Sixth Imperial Press Conference, which was to have been held in Ottawa during the week of August 5 next, has been postponed because of the war.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1939

Wilhelmina and Leopold

DUTCH AND BELGIAN MONARCHS again are appealing to the belligerents to pause and reflect while there is yet time to prevent the war from breaking out in all its fury. The offer of Queen Wilhelmina and King Leopold is as genuine now as it was before hostilities began. Primarily actuated by the loftiest humanitarian motives, nonetheless apprehensive of the danger their strategic position emphasizes, their appeal comprehends much more than the immediate tide of victory or defeat for the principal combatants. It is fearful of the aftermath.

Although he had prepared his address before the submission of the two European monarchs, Lord Halifax, Britain's Foreign Secretary, has summed up his country's position again. Nothing he said was either new or novel. It was more or less a restatement of the policy to which he and Prime Minister Chamberlain have, in effect, given voice on several occasions in the last few weeks. The significance of its repetition, therefore, lies in its unswerving resolve to accept no peace that does not create a "new world" in which nations would be immune from "insane armed rivalry." Among the points driven home were the following:

"In general it is no business of one nation to interfere with the internal administration of another; but when the challenge in the sphere of international relations is sharpened as today in Germany, by the denial of men and women of elementary human rights, that challenge is at once extended to something instinctive and profound in the universal conscience of mankind. We are therefore fighting to maintain the rule of law and the quality of mercy in dealings between man and man and in the great society of civilized states."

Perhaps Mr. Chamberlain will use the occasion of the annual Lord Mayor's banquet tomorrow night to amplify what Lord Halifax said yesterday. But there is no indication from Berlin so far that the British peace plan is any more palatable there than it has been since the day it was first enunciated by the Prime Minister. It is just possible, however, especially with the growing prospect of a stalemate condition on the western front and in the absence of an invasion of neutral territory, that some method may still be devised to implement the latest proposal, from The Hague and Brussels.

Utopia Fades Again

ONCE MORE CALIFORNIA HAS dodged Utopia. By two to one, its voters have turned down the "ham and eggs" proposal to give $30 every week to all unemployed persons over 50. Yesterday's adverse majority was greater than that accorded a similar proposal a year ago. In not one county of the state did the proposal gain endorsement at the polls. Even Los Angeles, home of the Townsend Plan, did not support it. Life for oldsters in California evidently is not yet to be unalloyed bliss with not an economic worry. Ohio also yesterday emphatically voted down "ham and eggs." It seems that the people of Alberta are about the only folk who believe in such fanciful schemes. Or, do they still? Fundamentally all these schemes from Abernethy and Douglas to Townsend and "ham and eggs" are the same. They come down to printing paper money, or, to levying on a decreasing number of workers to pay "dividends" to an increasing number of idle. History holds up the lesson that either ends in economic breakdown, collapse of production and of all values, and social chaos.

Also highlighted in the United States voting results was the two-to-one victory for the pari-mutuel system of racetrack betting as against bookmakers in New York State. The system has now become general on this continent. Everywhere it is introduced it stays. This is partly because the public prefers the method of odds openly arrived at; mostly, because governments find it too important a source of tax revenue to let go.

Timely Reminder

PRESIDENT WILSON SAID ON SEPTEMBER 19, 1918, in an address to the Corps Diplomatique, some words which at this juncture are of special interest and worth recalling in view of Fuehrer Hitler's habit of breaking promises:

"We want absolute victory. No negotiations are admissible. Even if the enemy were to declare to me tomorrow that he was ready to accept the Fourteen Points drawn up by me, the fact is that one cannot believe a word our enemies say. We require more than their promise to adhere to the Fourteen Points, namely, their inability to break them."

And again, a few days later, addressing the Red Cross, he said:

"We are all agreed on this point, that with the Central Powers no peace can be obtained by agreement or by compromise, because we have already negotiated with them and have also seen at Brest-Litovsk and Bucharest how they themselves have dealt with other participants in the war. They have convinced me that they are without honor and do not intend to deal honestly."

Back In Munich Again

SIXTEEN YEARS AGO TODAY SOME-thing happened in the ancient Bavarian city of Munich which will furnish the historian of some later time with much material for contemplation. He will be confronted with one important question: If the Hitler-Ludendorff beer hall "putsch" had succeeded, if three conspirators against the Constitution of Weimar had not "rattled" at the last moment, would the continent of Europe have been better off or worse off than it is today? The answer, of course, will be immaterial.

Adolf Hitler was thwarted in his attempt to capitalize his great and unique psychological opportunity of that time. Commissary von Kahr, General von Lossow and Colonel Seisser, who had been "persuaded" to join in the revolt against the Berlin government, left Hitler and Ludendorff in the lurch after the famous meeting at the Burgerbrauekeller. For as Sturm Abteilung Gruppenfuhrer (General of Storm Troops) Joseph Berchtold, editor of the Voelkischer Beobachter and a Munich city councillor, relates in "Germany's Hitler":

"When Hitler returned from his last-minute activities all over the city he was agitated to find nobody but General Ludendorff awaiting him in the room behind the Burgerbrauekeller. 'How's this, Excellency?' he demanded, 'where are von Kahr, von Lossow, Seisser?' 'Gone,' replied Ludendorff. 'They gave me their word of honor. Good God! Hitler exclaimed, 'then the game's all up.'"

It is well recalled, of course, that Hitler had left the three men—von Kahr, von Lossow and Seisser—under Ludendorff's eye. For, despite their enthusiasm at the meeting in the Burgerbrauekeller, he did not wholly trust them. Hitler went to the fortress for the detention of political prisoners at Landsberg, a small Bavarian town about 50 miles away—there to scheme for the tearing up of the Treaty of Versailles and for the making of some of his dreams come true. He is back in Munich today celebrating the abortive revolt of November 8, 1923.

Expecting Sabotage?

OVER THE PROTESTS OF THE NAZI government, the German Mixed Claims Commission recently awarded nearly $50,000,000 to private Americans for two munitions explosions which occurred more than 20 years ago—and before the United States entered the last war.

The first blast occurred on Black Tom Island, off New Jersey, in July, 1916, when 2,000,000 pounds of ammunition were exploded. The second was at Kingsland, N.J., where 500,000 three-inch shells blew up. The commission decided both blasts were the work of German agents.

The disposition of the Black Tom and Kingsland cases is being taken as a reminder in the United States that another war is on and, in view of the fact that Congress now has repealed the arms embargo, strict vigilance will be required on all activities of plants engaged in filling war material orders for Great Britain and France.

It would not be surprising, of course, if history repeats itself. But recent events in the United States, particularly steps to curtail un-American activities, suggest that the proper authorities were making plans anticipatory of all eventualities while the Congress was discussing the neutrality act.

Other parties in the Legislature have decided to let the C.C.F. members "stew in their own juice" over their war criticisms. Public opinion will give the final ruling.

The Queen will broadcast a Remembrance Day message to the Empire on Saturday. Her voice will bring to Canadians a flood of happy memories centering around events of a few months ago.

Canada's First Contingent

From Toronto Star

One report has it that Canada's first contingent of about 16,000 men will be training in England before the winter is over. This might be a wise procedure from two viewpoints: First, because of difficult climatic conditions here; second, because of the better training facilities in the mother country. The men will be clothed in Canada, but equipped for the most part in England. Nearly 3,000 of the 16,000 men will be members of Toronto units.

If the war lasts over another winter in addition to that now approaching, Canada will no doubt have properly equipped training fields at her disposal. This means heated quarters in which the men will be comfortable in severe weather, and adequate sanitary arrangements to guarantee their health as well as their comfort. The importance of sanitation in wartime was emphasized in the Great War. It is not likely to be lost sight of in this one, either in camps or at the front. A field hygiene section for sanitation will be included in the Canadian division sent overseas. An army requires a number of other servicing units, and these too will be represented: An ammunition company, a petrol company, divisional supply column, three field ambulances, provost or policing company from the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, divisional postal unit and the employment platoon of labor troops.

The departure of the first division will leave Canada free to get a second one ready. It is generally recognized that Canada's contribution to the war is to be one of men, as well as one of food and munitions, and that her war effort will in both respects be made worthy of her senior place among the British dominions.

TYPHOON OVER

THE TYPHOON of passion which rolled through the House Monday blew itself out yesterday with faint rumbles in the distance, but apparently it will return later when the C.C.F. explains further its attitude towards the war.

For the moment the C.C.F., the only party participating in the debate, contented itself with attrition against the social system. The elder Mr. Winch, who made an exceedingly good speech, has been nibbling at the social system diligently for years, and with some success. He got Boxing Day declared a holiday. He almost got a new deal for Stanley Park bears. Now he was able to "announce with satisfaction that he had got two sheets and private rooms for the inmates of the Aged Men's Home in Kamloops. But the social system, even undermined thus far, will stand a lot of nibbling yet.

To the confusion of the war issue in this House Mr. Winch added another touch of mystification. Let us follow the stages of the C.C.F. argument on the war carefully and impartially. The younger Mr. Winch said the war was a war for "democracy and liberty." Then Mrs. Steeves and Mr. Cameron bitterly assailed those who were making the war as no disciples of democracy or liberty. This was entirely inconsistent with Mr. Winch's official statement.

Then, after the other C.C.F. speakers had insisted on talking of the war, had called the war the supreme issue, had asserted that the Legislature must discuss the war—after all this war talk, the elder Mr. Winch remarked blandly that the Legislature wasn't sent here to run the affairs of the nation or the affairs of Canada, but only the affairs of British Columbia.

No wonder that young Mr. Winch is going to speak on the war again and seek to clear away all this confusion.

UCLY STUFF

MEANWHILE the elder Mr. Winch, getting down to cases, showed his almost unequalled knowledge of social welfare in British Columbia. Probably alone among the members of this House, he reads Provincial Secretary Weir's able reports on the conditions of our public institutions and the lives of our young.

What he finds in them makes ugly reading—a large proportion of our school children suffering from malnutrition and neglected eyes and teeth, school buildings in shocking condition. But he had high praise for Dr. Weir and admitted that he was improving conditions steadily.

Young Mr. Winch could hardly demand that he be made leader of the opposition, but his father could and did. Mr. Maitland, said he, had surrendered the job of leading the opposition to the C.C.F., and he hinted pretty broadly that Mr. Maitland was not earning the special salary of $2,000 paid to the opposition leader. But doubtless, said he with heavy sarcasm, a lawyer like Mr. Maitland was used to high fees for little work.

When Capt. Macintosh mumbled from his seat that the C.C.F.'s only real opposition was to the war, Mr. Winch turned on him angrily and told him to stand up and address the speaker. Then when Mr. Winch admitted that in a rare moment of relaxation he had gone to the movies, Mr. Anscomb tried to distract him by asking innocently from the end bench whether he had gone to see that racy film "The Women." Quick as a flash Mr. Winch smacked Mr. Anscomb down flat with: "If I wanted to see an old woman I'll look up at the end desk there. Now you shut up." Mr. Anscomb subsided, punctured, with a faint hissing sound.

After that nobody interrupted Mr. Winch, and he nibbled away at the social system for a full hour, and with a speech full of meat, and full of honest protest.

MAIDEN SPEECH

THE MAIDEN SPEECH of Mrs. Jamieson made an excellent impression. Evidently the C.C.F. has a brace of ladies in this House who know how to take care of themselves. You would have thought from her ease of manner that Mrs. Jamieson had been speaking in the House all her life, and there is none of Mrs. Steeves' sharp puckishness and sting in her.

She talked of what she understood—the problem of juvenile delinquency, its prevention and cure, holding up the recent sentences of death and life imprisonment imposed on three young British Columbians in Vancouver as a horrid example of our failure to save the young from destruction while there is yet time. Her positive suggestions for improving the juvenile court system and our courts generally seemed to impress Mr. Wismer, who listened carefully.

Most young members are flushed, breathless and speechless when they have completed a maiden speech. Mrs. Jamieson sat down and calmly began to peel an apple with a blunt paper knife while notes of congratulation poured in from other members. But the apple a day now on the desks of the members every afternoon isn't going to keep the Doctor away. The one and only Dr. Telford was getting ready to go into action on a wide front on the morrow.

Girls at Lasell Junior College in Newton, Mass., have come out brazenly wearing men's garters to hold up their ankle socks, thereby providing the last shred of evidence that nothing is sacred.

London tailors, before the outbreak of war, offered to refund the full purchase price of garments bought on a certain day if war was declared before 1940. It is the first case recorded of anyone betting his pants on the present conflict.

Revelation Through Molotoff

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

ONE'S FIRST IMPRESSION

ONE'S FIRST IMPRESSION on reading Molotoff's speech is that it is a remarkable piece of satire—a successful attempt to imitate and surpass the rationalizations to which we have become accustomed in the speeches of Hitler, Ribbentrop and Goebbels. It is, in fine, a Nazi speech, in support of a Nazi policy, and for mendacity and cynicism it has seldom been equaled.

ONE MUST consider the speech against the background of Soviet policy as it has been pursued since 1933 until the conclusion of the Russian-German agreement in August last.

In 1933 the Soviet Union, considering itself menaced by the Hitler government, revised its previous foreign policy and went out for collective security and the Popular Front, instructing the Communist Party in all countries to collaborate with "liberal" and "progressive" groups, and adopting as its parole the war against Fascism.

The atrocities of Nazism were used to cover and to justify the purges in Russia, whereby thousands of persons were summarily "liquidated" as "Trotskyists, saboteurs, wreckers, and Fascists."

Communist Russia was threatened, according to the Stalinists, by a gigantic Nazi plot, involving Leon Trotsky, and the salvation of the world's Socialist fatherland and the world's hope demanded ruthlessness.

THE MOVEMENT reached its peak at the time of the Munich pact, when the Communist organization, press and speakers denounced Chamberlain's "appeasement" as the greatest sell-out in history.

The Communist press warned that after Czechoslovakia, Poland would be the next to be attacked. Nazi Germany was denounced as the permanent menace to European peace. "As long as Hitler rules Germany there will be no peace and no security for any small nation," was the cry. Hitler's claim to Lebensraum was denounced as ruthless imperialism.

DURING THIS period, however, there were many opponents of Nazism—among them this columnist—who warned that the course events were taking in Russia bore a startling resemblance to the Nazi dictatorship and fitted into no conceivable picture of democratic socialism.

Analysis of the much-touted "Democratic Constitution" revealed to any unprejudiced mind that it was a fake.

The cases in the "trials" were completely unacceptable to anyone who could read, and remained obscure to all who are unable to follow the rationalizations and deviations of the conspiratorial mind.

The later purges dispensed with even the pretence of trials. The cult of the Fuehrer reached and overtopped that of the Nazis. The obsequious and servile worship of Stalin was as Byzantine as the similar Hitler cult and attended by the same manifestations—the ubiquitous picture replacing the Ikon and the crucifix, the hysterical hymns to the Man-God.

THE POLITICAL systems developed along almost exactly similar lines. The dictatorship of a party became the dictatorship of the secret police, and, eventually, the despotic rule of a single tyrant, moving according to the machinations of conspirators.

The economic developments paralleled each other. In Russia the institution of private personal property was restored, with a steady retreat from the idea of economic equality, while productive property, theoretically "socialized," was actually the property of the state, which, in fact, was the property of one man and the clique around him, to be used as they desired.

In Germany productive property theoretically retained its ownership, but the controls and restrictions became such that the owners and managers were all reduced to servitude to the state, which in turn was the instrument of one man and the clique around him.

AT THE SAME time, cultural developments, always the clearest mirror of life and the key to an understanding of trends, approached each other. All "modern" trends in art, the theatre, music and literature were suppressed in Germany as "cultural Bolshevism," and suppressed in Russia as "bourgeois formalism."

What was called "Jewish" in Germany was called "decadent" in Russia. The point is that the same things were suppressed! In music, Shostakovich, Hindemith, Schonberg—the very same composers!

Stalin's taste in art is a blood and soil taste, combined with a love for the rapid chromo, and, like Hitler's, which is similar, became the criterion for the nation. The same jealousy over the cultural and religious life manifested itself in both countries. The personalized state demanded the exhaustion of the very emotions in its service. The state as cult left no room for any transcendental values. The Wotanism of the Nazis was paralleled in Russia by atheism divorced from skepticism. Atheism itself became a religion—the religion of the anti-Christ.

WHAT WAS happening was clear to many formerly ardent Socialists and to the most intelligent Marxians, for the revelation of which they were denounced—fantastically, in the light of present events—as "Fascist" or "Nazi" stooges.

What was happening, in both Germany and Russia, was the death of both Communism and National Socialism, even as ideas, and their substitution by social nihilism, brigandism and Caesarism.

What was left to recommend the Soviets to the peace-loving was only the belief that they had no territorial aims outside their own vast borders.

Now that illusion, too, has gone.

WHILE THE Russian tendency approached the Nazis, the Nazis approached the Russian. The political power of all tyrants inevitably and invariably depends upon the elimination of the "nobles"—whatever class, traditional, intellectual, clerical or economic, has the power and the will to stand between the leader and the masses.

Therefore Hitler has been forced, by the very nature of his personal cult, to eliminate all the elements which might dare to stand up against him—because of an inherited tradition and custom of participation in rulership, or because of wealth to defend, or because of intellectual convictions strongly held, or because of religious faith.

They, and not the masses, menaced the power. For the masses are, first of all, inherently weak and helpless when deprived of their leadership. Since they have little to start with, it is always possible to conciliate them, for a time at least, with the political jobs and economic spoils taken from the nobility.

"Bread and circuses" were always Caesar's promise and gift.

THUS, STALIN and Hitler are revealed as the Janus-faces of the same thing: one an eastern face; one a western face; two pro-consuls of the same will to universal disorder, universal terror and universal destruction of all standards and values.

All this is revealed in the speech of Molotoff, as we shall point out in the next column.

THOSE WHO ARE INJURED

From Health League of Canada

There are about 8,000,000 persons of 65 years or over in Canada and the United States. This number is about 6 per cent of the total population, yet fully one-quarter of the 110,000 annual fatal accident fatalities in the two countries are among persons who have reached or passed their 65th birthday.

The commonest type of accident in persons of 65 or over is falls on floors, on stairs and on the street. Relatively few are due to falls from high places—from roofs, balconies, fire escapes, trees, etc.

FROM "MINORA SIDERA"

By Sir Henry Newbolt

Whether their fame centuries long should ring
They cared not over-much,
But cared greatly to serve God and the King,
And keep the Nelson touch;
And fought to build Britain above
the tide
Of wars and windy fate;
And passed content, leaving to us
the pride
Of lives obscurely spent.

Better English

1. What is wrong with this sentence? "This medicine is a preventative."
2. What is the correct pronunciation of "gondola"?
3. Which one of these words is misspelled? Cinderella, cinema, cinamon.
4. What does the word "insuperable" mean?
5. What is a word beginning with hy that means "of or pertaining to marriage"?

Answers
1. Say preventative. Preventative is a corruption of preventive. One authority says "it stamps anyone using it as lacking in common education." 2. Pronounce gon-do-la, first o as in on, second o as in obey, a as in ask unstressed, accent first syllable, not the second. 3. Cinamon. 4. Incapable of being overcome. "Pride is a vice... the most insuperable bar to real inward improvement."—Mrs. E. Carter. 5. Hymeneal.

PARIS — Crude drawings of cows of varying proportions, some in attitudes of defence, beligerency or alarm, and others in grazing positions, were noticed by French officers during the early days of the campaign on the Aisne. Puzzled at first, the French officers are now convinced that the system was used by German scouts to direct the armies that were to follow.

TRAVEL TREND IN CANADA WESTWARD

R. G. McNeillie, passenger traffic manager, Canadian Pacific Railway, Montreal, who is on his way to the coast from Winnipeg, says the company's passenger department indicates the general trend in Canada is to travel westward. He left Winnipeg last night westbound and is expected to visit this city. "Western Canada will see many tourists from the east and from across the international border," said Mr. McNeillie.

"If the heavy list of inquiries is any indication, people who might otherwise seek holidays abroad are turning their eyes to for paving purposes. The lumbermen, J. O. Cameron said, thought that as part of its paving program the city might carry out some work of this character.

For Quick Cough Relief, Try This Home Mixture

Splendid Results. Saves Money. Easily Mixed.

You'll be surprised how quickly and easily you can overcome a bad winter cough, when you try this well-known recipe. It gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money and you'll find it very pleasant and dependable, for real relief.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved.

Then add 1/2 cup of Pinex, and cook for 10 minutes. Strain through a fine sieve. Put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (obtained from any drugist) into a 16 oz. bottle.

Add your syrup and you have 16 ounces of medicine that will surprise you by its quick action. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time, and tastes fine—children love it.

This home mixture takes right hold of a severe cough. For real results, you'll say it's splendid. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membrane, and quickly eases soreness and difficulty breathing.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable gualacol in concentrated form, well-known for its soothing effect on throat membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Clews, who celebrated their golden wedding on Friday, Nov. 3. They were married in 1889 at Aston Parish Church, Birmingham, England, by the Rev. H. Sands. They came to Canada in 1906 and resided in and near Calgary until 1915, when they returned to England. Early in 1920 they came to Victoria, taking up residence on Hampton Road.

Social and Personal

Mr. R. D. Harvey, Hazel Street, has returned home from a short trip to Ottawa.

Mrs. G. A. Hunter has arrived from Saskatoon to spend the winter months in Victoria.

Mrs. F. Vincent Rush who has been visiting relations at Langford and Royal Oak has returned to her home in Port Alberni.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Fyfe of Banff, who are annual visitors in Victoria, have arrived to spend the winter with Mr. and Mrs. E. Fredette, Michigan Street.

Ven. Archdeacon F. C. Cornish performed the ceremony at the wedding of Miss Audrey Helen Applegate and Mr. John Hawdon Pearson at St. Matthias Church Sunday afternoon, and not Rev. Alan Gardiner as erroneously stated.

Messrs. William Locke Paddon of Watsoville, Cal., and Wadham Locke Paddon of Quick, B.C., and Francis Locke Paddon of Nelson, B.C., are visiting their mother, Mrs. Paddon of "Kryton," Esquimalt, having come here to attend the Bruce-Paddon wedding that took place this afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Patterson, Craigdarroch, have returned after spending the last few days in Vancouver. They were accompanied home by Mr. and Mrs. Eric John Rhoades (nee Ormsby), who were married last Saturday in Vancouver and who will be their guests until the end of the week.

Mrs. James Kelly, who is leaving shortly for Halifax, was the guest of honor recently at the home of Miss Eva Young. During the evening, Mrs. Kelly was presented with a small traveling kit.

The invited guests were: Messdames R. Howard, A. Ashworth, R. Gough, and H. Sinnott, and the Misses Margaret Clark, Dorothy Perry, Alicia Farrant, Jean Hall, Dorothy Skelton, Mabel Townsend, Agnes Murphy, Gladys Aryle, Agnes Guy, Vera James, Eva Young and Bernice Chapman, Cowichan Station.

Mrs. Lennox Irving has rented her home on Foul Bay Road to Mr. and Mrs. F. Stephens, who arrived here some time ago from England to make their home. Mrs. Irving and her sister, Mrs. M. L. Curtis, are staying at the Empress Hotel until Friday, when they will leave for Vancouver to spend the winter with their sister, Mrs. J. H. Carswell. Yesterday Mrs. J. H. Hunter entertained at a small luncheon party at the Victoria Golf Club for Mrs. Irving and Mrs. Curtis, and in the evening Mrs. Russell Ker, Windsor Apartments, entertained a few friends at bridge for them.

Mrs. H. P. Phillips (nee Miss Katherine Stuart Hutchison) was the guest of honor Monday afternoon at a miscellaneous shower, when Mrs. H. Baxter and Mrs. A. Strathairn were hostesses at the latter's home. The many and varied gifts were conveyed to the bride in a gaily decorated box, the handwork of Mrs. Arthur Baxter. The guest of honor was the winner in an "anatomy" guessing contest. Mrs. Phillips and the bride's mother were both presented with corsage bouquets. The guests were Messdames H. P. Phillips, S. Hutchison, H. Gableman, G. Wilmshurst, A. Zarit, R. W. Richards, A. Jones, A. Hobbs, A. W. Silman, J. Trace, J. Crossfield, A. Ryan, W. Henderson, J. A. Betts, Mrs. Arthur Baxter, Mrs. C. Carnegie Jr., and the Misses M. Strathairn and M. Gableman.

Over 500 Play Bridge At Government House

Mrs. E. W. Hamber Hostess Today at Huge Party Arranged in Aid of Victoria Red Cross; Other Hostesses Also Entertain for Cause

"Post-mortems" were dedicated on a large scale to charity, and the hospitable walls of Government House echoed and re-echoed to the hum of "I pass," "two no-trump" and other contract parlance this afternoon, when bridge—that great feminine pastime—drew over 500 players to the largest gathering of its kind ever held in Victoria.

The occasion was the delightful and successful bridge and mah jong party held at Government House by kind invitation of Mrs. E. W. Hamber in aid of the funds of the Victoria Red Cross Society. So popular was the function that every available corner was pressed into service to accommodate the players, and a number of private hostesses arranged tables in their own homes to accommodate others who were too late to make reservations with the main party.

127 TABLES
The arrangements were marked by that perfection of detail which is synonymous with Government House. Functions. Mrs. Hamber, who was beautifully gowned in wine-red crepe, accented with sequins at the neck and sleeves, waived a formal reception of the guests in order to expedite the seating, but informally chatted with them during the afternoon.

In all, 127 tables were reserved. The ballroom and galleries were filled with players, as were the two drawing-rooms, sunroom, upstairs halls and the morning room. The entrance hall and drawing-room in the ballroom were banked with beautiful chrysanthemums and other autumn flowers.

ASSISTING HOSTESS
Tea was served in the dining-room and in the lower smoking-room, at tables lovely with huge silver bowls of single pink chrysanthemums, with matching tapers in silver candelabra. Mrs. Hamber was assisted by Capt. Hobart Molson, Mr. Hew Paterson, Mr. A. M. D. Fairbairn and Capt. J. Cromack, and the wives of His Honor's aides, including Mrs. J. Sutherland Brown, Mrs. Hew Paterson, Mrs. W. H. Molson, Mrs. Hugh Allan, Mrs. N. Van der Viet, Mrs. Maurice J. Turner and Mrs. C. E. Donaldson.

Also assisting the hostess in the arrangements and in the serving of the tea were Mrs. Alfred Carmichael, the general convenor, and her committee, including Dr. Olga Jardine, Mrs. Harold B. Robertson, Mrs. James Adam and Miss Mary Campbell, together with Mrs. Donald Campbell, Mrs. W. F. Munro and the Misses Jean Lennox, Teresa Todd, Ethne Savage, Margaret Hughes and Mary Worsley.

Mrs. J. D. Hunter had charge of the guessing contest for the handsomely decorated two-tier Christmas cake donated by Mrs. Hamber, who also gave a portable radio as a special prize.

Honor Couple On Silver Wedding
On Saturday evening a group of neighbors and old friends called to surprise and congratulate Sergeant and Mrs. Duncan Macpherson at their home, 1618 Pinewood Avenue, on the occasion of their silver wedding anniversary. Mr. Thomas Heatley, on behalf of the friends, presented them with a beautifully-decorated two-tier wedding cake, which was topped with a silver vase of heather and shamrock, tied with the Macpherson tartan and emerald satin ribbons.

Mrs. J. E. Coxworth presented a dainty corsage bouquet of roses and carnations to Mrs. Macpherson with the good wishes of her fellow members of the Hollywood Ladies Aid, of which organization Mrs. Macpherson is the president. Later in the evening Mr. W. Hyslop, in a happy strain, voiced the congratulations and good wishes of their many friends, and made a presentation of a handsome silver cream and sugar and tray set, to which the genial sergeant replied on behalf of Mrs. Macpherson and himself.

Refreshments were served, and a pleasant gathering brought to a close with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

Among the many friends calling were the bridesmaid of 25 years ago, now Mrs. Park, also Mr. A. Macdonald, who was present at the original ceremony. Among others present were: Mr. and Mrs. A. Macdonald, Mr. and Mrs. J. Mackenzie, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Coxworth, Mr. and Mrs. W. Hyslop, Mr. and Mrs. A. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. J. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. D. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Purdy, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Heatley, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McLean, Mr. and Mrs. H. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. F. Baylis, Mr. and Mrs. J. Kyle, Mr. D. Turner, Mr. D. Muir, Mrs. Adie, Mrs. T. Jones, Mrs. Jessie Brown, Mrs. Maud Jones, Miss Florence Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. F. Urquhart, Mrs. W. N. Smith, Miss Romans, Miss Mortimer, Miss Strachan, Mr. and Mrs. Rattray, Mr. and Mrs. J. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Denny, Mr. and Mrs. E. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Green and Mrs. Balfour.

ROYAL TELEGRAM
"The Royal telegram read: 'The King and Queen are much interested to hear that you are celebrating your 100th birthday and send you hearty congratulations and good wishes.'

"Among the telegrams of congratulation received were: One from Sir Thomas and Lady Rosbotham, one from Mrs. Richard Pilkington (herself a nonagenarian). There were also letters from Rainford District Council, Rev. S. Frow and Mrs. Frow, the Metropolitan United Church (Victoria, B.C.), the Women's Missionary Society (Victoria, B.C.), the Metropolitan W.A., and a cable from her daughter, Mrs. M. M. Nicol and family (Canada).

"Rev. S. Wilson, a former minister at Rainford Congregational Church, was the first caller on Sunday, and a steady stream of visitors passed through the house during the day. Fourteen members of the family and two great-grandchildren; Pam and Paul Edmundson, were present at the tea party. The 100 candles on the birthday cake were lit by Mrs. Macdonald's daughter, Mrs. Hugh Macdonald, who came from Victoria to be with her mother and who also cut the cake.

COMMUNITY CLUB BUSY ON PLANS FOR SERVICE
The Esquimalt Community Club met last evening with Mrs. R. McVie, president, in the chair. Reports showed 39 sick visits made by visitors during October. A successful dance, convened by Dorothy McVie, augmenting the funds to the extent of $22, to be used for the sick and needy of Esquimalt. Another one will be held December 15 at Esquimalt Athletic Hall, Fraser Street.

Plans were also completed for the Remembrance Day service at Memorial Park, November 11. Every organization and all who are assisting in this service to meet at the park at 10.45. Mr. L. Howe is marshal in charge. Reeve Lockley will lay the municipal wreath and representatives from naval, military, air force and mounted police will be present.

Improvements at Aged Women's Home

The committee met at the Aged Women's Home yesterday afternoon at 2.30, Mrs. W. L. Clay, the president, occupying the chair. The ordinary routine of business was proceeded with and bills for the month ordered paid.

The secretary reported that the elevator, which had taken so long to be installed, would now in a very short time be in operation. This would be very welcome news to many in the home who are unable to get up and down stairs. Work is also progressing with the installation of the new washing machine and extractor, which will be of great service to the home.

Committee for the month will be Mrs. E. Heddle, convenor; Mrs. Harold Grant and Mrs. G. A. Lister.

Weddings

BRUCE-PADDON

A wedding of province-wide interest was solemnized this afternoon at 2 at St. John's Church by Rev. H. St. John Payne, assisted by Canon F. A. P. Chadwick, between Miss Doratheo Locke Paddon, youngest daughter of the late Canon W. F. Locke Paddon of Mayne Island, and Mrs. Paddon, "Kyrton," Greenwood Avenue, Esquimalt, and Rev. Montague W. J. Bruce of "Llwyn-y-Mor," Mount Newton, Saanichton, V.I.

White chrysanthemums were used on the altar and the chancel was banked with similar blooms. The full choir was in attendance and during the service Mrs. Knowles sang the solo "May the Grace." Mr. G. Jennings Burnett, church organist, played the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her eldest brother, Mr. William Locke Paddon of Watsonville, Cal., the bride wore a French model ankle-length velvet tulle in zinnia rust shade, with a Watteau period felt hat with silk and velvet petal crown to tone with her suit, and a corsage bouquet of Talisman roses. She was unattended, and Dr. Eric W. Boak supported the bridegroom.

Owing to the illness of the bride's mother, a reception for relatives only followed the ceremony, among those present being the bride's three brothers, Mr. William L. Paddon of Watsonville, Cal.; Mr. Francis L. Paddon of Nelson, B.C.; and Mr. Wadham L. Paddon of Quick, B.C.

Rev. and Mrs. Montague Bruce left later for California, the bride travelling in an imported wool ensemble in navy and grey with matching accessories, and on their return will reside at "Llwyn-y-Mor," Mount Newton.

MacKINNON-GOURLEY

CRANBROOK, B.C.—A marriage of interest took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eric MacKinnon here on Saturday evening, when Jean Robson Gourley, Toronto, only daughter of Dr. T. A. Gourley, became the wife of Dr. Neil Duncan Clyde MacKinnon, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. MacKinnon, Lansdowne Road, Victoria. Rev. T. L. Williams of Knox Presbyterian Church officiated.

The bride wore a smart pale grey wool frock, trimmed with navy braid, and grey wool coat, with grey Persian lamb collar and lapels, and a grey pillbox hat, with lamb border and colored quill.

The couple was unattended.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Eric MacKinnon were hosts at a wedding supper, with the table centred by a crystal and silver bowl of white and pink chrysanthemums, and lighted by white tapers. The couple left immediately afterwards on a wedding trip to Spokane. They will make their home at Trail, where Dr. MacKinnon is city medical health officer. He was born and grew up in Cranbrook, graduating in medicine from Toronto University. The bride is a graduate nurse, and was engaged in hospital work in Toronto.

SHOLES-CUNNINGHAM

St. Mark's Anglican Church, Central Salt Spring Island, was the scene of a very pretty wedding yesterday at 12 noon, when the Rev. C. H. Popham united in marriage Olivia, eldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Cunningham of Salt Spring Island, and Mr. Victor John Sholes of London, England. White chrysanthemums formed the decorations for altar and chancel.

Entering the church on the arm of her brother, Mr. Guy Cunningham, who gave her in marriage, the bride was charming in her princess gown of white satin and lace, the embroidered silk net veil falling from a coronet of orange blossoms to form a train. Her bouquet was of pink and white carnations and roses.

She was attended by Miss Phyllis Beech as bridesmaid in a picture frock of turquoise blue silk organza, with wide sash of dusty pink velvet, silver slippers and white lace mittens. With it was worn a silver grey straw poke bonnet, lined with turquoise blue trimmed with pink rosebuds and blue forget-me-nots, and she carried a colonial bouquet of violets and pink rosebuds. Mr. Cyril Beech supported the groom.

During the ceremony the hymns "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden" and "O Perfect Love" were sung, Mrs. G. B. Young presiding at the organ.

A reception was held at the family home, where Mrs. Aylwin of Patricia Bay, V.I., sister of the bride, received the guests, assisted by Mrs. Guy Cunningham. Refreshments were served from a table centred by a large wedding cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Sholes left on the afternoon boat for Vancouver, where the honeymoon will be spent, the bride traveling in a blue and grey tweed costume, rust colored felt hat and matching accessories. On their return Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Sholes will make their home at Central Settlement.

CHAPMAN-GAHNON

A quiet wedding took place at the home of Mrs. H. A. Gilroy, Chemainus, on Saturday afternoon at 3.30, when Rev. E. M. Cook united in marriage Miss June Gahnon and Frederick Chapman, both of Alberni.

The bride wore a navy blue tailor-made suit with small navy blue hat and veil, and a corsage of pink and white carnations. She was attended by Miss Lurana Gilroy, who wore a pretty flowered taffeta dress with bandeau of flowers on her head and a corsage bouquet of pink and white carnations. Mr. Jack Chapman was his brother's best man.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Chapman left for their honeymoon, which will be spent in Victoria, Vancouver and sound cities. On their return they will make their home in Alberni.

WATSON-GUEST

At the home of the officiating clergyman, Rev. George Wallace, Belmont Avenue, the marriage of Mona, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Guest of Belmont Avenue, and Mr. F. R. Watson, P.C.L.I., only son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Watson, Taunton Street, was solemnized this afternoon at 3.15, in the presence of members of the two families.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a teal blue dress, a rust coat and other accessories to match, while her corsage bouquet was of pink carnations. She was attended by Mrs. F. Briggs, who wore a navy blue taffeta dress with matching hat and a corsage bouquet of pink carnations. Mr. Graham Cuthbertson supported the bridegroom. Mr. and Mrs. Watson left later on a trip up the island.

LAKE HILL RED CROSS

A public Red Cross meeting will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2.30 in the Women's Institute Room, Lake Hill.

Tentative plans are being made to start home nursing classes and a meeting to complete arrangements will be held the same afternoon. It is hoped all who are interested in Red Cross work will attend and that classes may be started without delay. Sewing material will be given on the same afternoon.

Y.W.C.A. NOTES

At the first meeting of the Camera Club of the Y.W.C.A. the members viewed various types of snaps and had some pictures taken of themselves after they had learned to group people properly for pictures. Mrs. L. A. Gane is the leader of the group and has announced that at tomorrow evening's meeting at 7.30, Mr. Sydney White will give a talk on the various kinds of lenses and films and all members are requested to bring their own cameras. These meetings are free to members of the "Y," while there is a small registration fee for all others. The Senior Girls' Council will meet at 6 p.m. for the monthly supper meeting, when plans for the Sunday World Fellowship Tea will be completed. Also the council will discuss the matter of "Y" dances and policy regarding these affairs. All members are urged to be present.

Mrs. John S. Stevenson was hostess to the members of the Y-Owneca Club at a delightful party on Tuesday evening, when the girls took charge of the evening and after a short business meeting games were enjoyed. The evening closed with the serving of delicious refreshments by the hostess, who is a member of the Girls' Work Committee.

The Interclub Council of the Girls' Hi-Y has called a special meeting for Friday at 4 p.m. when the final arrangements will be made for the International Tea scheduled for November 18 from 2.30 to 5.30.

As many as 67,000 people in a day put in phone calls in New York City to hear the weather forecast announced mechanically.

A card party at which 500 and bridge will be played, will be held in the Women's Institute Hall November 14 at 2:15. All proceeds will be given to the Queen Alexandra Solarium.

Co-operatives Key To Problem of Security

Ambrose Forgeron Tells Club of Success in Maritimes

"World conditions today bring home to us that, as an alternative to autocracy we may have to choose between co-operation or chaos. We in Nova Scotia have proved that co-operation is the very essence of democracy," Mr. Ambrose Forgeron, president of the United Maritimes Fishermen, told the Women's Canadian Club yesterday afternoon.

HELPED THEMSELVES

The speaker described in graphic language the way in which the once poverty-stricken and illiterate fishermen of Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick have improved their lot socially and economically, spiritually and materially, through the medium of adult education, credit unions and the co-operative movement. Today, $1,000,000 is owned and controlled through credit unions, by the people of the Maritimes. More than half the fishermen in the whole Dominion are in the Maritimes, which produces the greatest variety of fish of any province in Canada or any state in the United States, said Mr. Forgeron.

"In 1937 the average income of the Maritime fishermen was $330 a year, and in their most prosperous year, 1919, they averaged $550. There is no other industry they can turn to," he explained, saying that they had been fishermen for generations, also that their country was not an agricultural one.

The plight of the industry in 1932 drove the men to seek other means of improving their lot, and to this end they took up adult education at the suggestion of Dr. H. J. Cody, and under the guidance of St. Xavier University. So well did they succeed that the only definite progress made by the fishermen themselves, he noted, and 22 lobster-canning outfits alone, in addition to many other fish-processing outfits, today are owned by the men, together with their own banks and credit unions.

CAPE BRETON EXPERIMENT

The Cape Breton miners who were suffering acute poverty during the depression, were also encouraged to take up credit unions and in three years 800 miners who had not previously owned a dollar owned between them $25,000, and did a $75,000 loan business.

Mrs. James Adam, the president, was in the chair and announced that on Tuesday next Mr. Richard Finnie will give an illustrated address on the province of Quebec. Mrs. Allan Peebles ably moved the vote of thanks to the speaker.

Mrs. Jack Townsend enhanced the pleasure of the afternoon with her two songs, "My Johann" (Grieg) and "Rose," by Robert Burns; Mrs. C. C. Warr accompanying her at the piano.

A number of children's books were donated to the club's shower for the Fairbridge Farm School, and further donations may be left at Scurrah's store any day this week.

O.E.S. Bazaar Drew Many Patrons

Success rewarded the convener of the annual bazaar of Victoria Chapter No. 17, Order of Eastern Star, the affair being held in the S.O.E. Hall. It was opened at 2:30 p.m. by Mrs. George Miles, grand chaplain of the Grand Chapter of British Columbia, who was presented with a corsage bouquet by Velma Neelands. The guests were received by the worthy matron, Mrs. L. Batchelor, and Mrs. A. G. Carmichael, associate matron.

There was a splendid variety of stalls, all attractively arranged and well patronized during the day. Fancypwork was in charge of Mesdames J. Mann, R. Muir, A. Hourston and L. Brenen; aprons and cushions, Mesdames F. Bland, H. Kerr and J. W.

Burnett; candy, Mesdames A. Hammett and M. Alexander. House-houses, under the supervision of Mesdames L. Jefferson and V. Meville, was popular.

Afternoon tea was served under the supervision of Mesdames J. Hichens-Smith, R. McKeen, J. Thomson and R. Steer, and pouring tea at the daintily-appointed tea table were Mrs. E. Schmeek, past grand worthy matron; Mrs. H. O. Austin, past grand worthy matron; Mrs. D. Parrott, worthy matron of Queen City Chapter; Mrs. E. Sanders, worthy matron of Esquimalt Chapter; Mrs. L. McKenzie, worthy matron of Ruth Chapter, and Mrs. R. Tubman, worthy matron of Oak Bay Chapter. Mesdames M. Shepherd and K. Wormald were in receipt of customs.

Mrs. R. Semple arranged the program, which included piano solos by Mr. McNaughton; vocal solos by Mesdames F. Noel and V. Weston, and violin solos by E. Davis.

SCHUBERT CLUB

There was a good attendance of members at the combined practice and social gathering of the Schubert Club in the Y.M.C.A. clubrooms on Monday.

Mr. Francis Kermode, director of the Provincial Museum of Natural History, gave an illustrated talk on the life and customs of the aboriginal races of the North Pacific coast, particularly in regard to British Columbia, showing

Child Evacuees to Come to Canada

OTTAWA (CP).—Canadian kindergarten and nursery school teachers are anxious to take war-refugee children under their wing, it was learned yesterday.

A resolution sent Prime Minister Mackenzie King offers services of the "National Federation of Kindergarten, Nursery School and Kindergarten-Primary Teachers in organizing and staffing nursery schools and kindergarten for refugee children from overseas, if necessary, and for the children of Canadian soldiers."

Canadian homes are already being prepared to house 100 "selected" orphans from Great Britain between the ages of three and 13, as a part of Canada's share in the mass evacuation scheme being staged throughout the British Isles.

As soon as transportation is arranged the children will be sent to Canada for duration of the war at least.

ing the modes of living, transportation, etc. Motion pictures were also shown of animals which were used for food and clothing by the native races of the province.

The president, Mrs. Madge Shrimpton, thanked Mr. Kermode for his interesting talk. Refreshments were served by the executive.

WAR!

1. HOSPITALS AND HOSPITAL EQUIPMENT

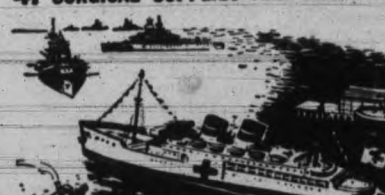

2. AMBULANCES

3. FOOD AND COMFORTS

4. SURGICAL SUPPLIES AND DRESSINGS

5. WAR RELIEF

Hundreds of thousands of Polish refugees in countries adjacent to Poland are in dire need. Through the International Red Cross Society at Geneva, help is being sent to these unfortunate people. Your contribution will help to provide food and clothing during the coming winter.

Hospitals must be built and equipped in England and France to care for the sick and wounded. During the last war the Canadian Red Cross built and equipped (wholly or in part) hospitals at Taplow, Bushey Park, Ramsgate, Bexhill and Buxton in England; built and equipped one of the largest military hospitals in France; and established a depot in Boulogne for Canadian hospitals.

From 1914 to 1918 the Canadian Red Cross provided scores of ambulances to convey the sick and wounded in France and England. Now the need for ambulances faces us again. It seems likely that the demand will be greater than during the last war.

Again the Red Cross wishes to be able to send socks, cigarettes, candy and other comforts to the boys at the front. During the last war, 341,325 cases of supplies were sent overseas. The Society sent sixty pounds of food per month to every Canadian prisoner of war, in addition to tobacco, medical supplies, clothing and books. Should the occasion arise, we must be prepared to do so again.

X-Ray equipment, surgical supplies and dressings must be purchased almost immediately. During the last war, thousands of cases of supplies were sent to England and France. Thousands of dollars were contributed to equip a ward in the St. John Ambulance Brigade Hospital at Etaples, France.

6. PEACETIME WORK OF THE RED CROSS

The regular work of the Red Cross in Canada must be continued. Outpost hospitals and nursing stations must be maintained and the work of the Red Cross in frontier districts must be carried on. The activities of the Junior Red Cross must be developed. The normal cost of this great effort is a million dollars a year.

The Red Cross swings into action

WITH THE WAR only a few weeks old, the Canadian Red Cross has already marshalled its forces to save lives, to prevent suffering. Lack of preparedness cost many lives during 1914 and 1915. This time Red Cross facilities must be on the job. Already the need is urgent. The work of equipping hospitals in England and France must be undertaken immediately. Ambulances will be needed. Surgical supplies, X-Ray equipment must be on hand. This work cannot wait.

During the last war, Canadians gave without stint to support the work of the Canadian Red Cross and the British Red Cross. During this war you will be asked to contribute only to the Canadian Red Cross, which will co-operate closely with its parent organization. We are all fighting for the same cause. We will all work together to see that the human side of war is carried on successfully.

Will you support this splendid cause? Will you save a life, help a sick or suffering lad who is far from home, or bring a few comforts to the boys who are in the thick of the fight?

Your loved ones may or may not have to go. But at this time all the boys in khaki are your sons, your brothers. They are fighting for your liberty, protecting your home. If you can't go, give to the Red Cross.

The need is urgent—dig in and give!

Extension of Zoning Sought

Extension of zoned districts in Saanich which would limit construction of single family homes in the areas concerned was sought by two delegations interviewed by the Saanich Council last night.

The two districts were those adjacent to Reynolds and Arbutus Roads. It is proposed that homes in these areas would be limited to 800 square feet.

In the Reynolds Road district, construction on Cumberland Road, Cedar Hill Cross Road and Union Avenue would be affected and in the Arbutus district the area extends along the waterfront from Victoria Drive to the Queenwood Subdivision.

After hearing both delegates the council deferred further discussion on the matter until next week.

Policy Set for Transport Bids

Victoria's stand on questions of policy dealing with the tender for a new system of transportation covering Greater Victoria, was settled by the City Council, sitting in committee of the whole, yesterday afternoon.

The decisions of the council were given to the special committee of municipal officials working out the form on which bids will be sought. Answers must also be secured from Oak Bay and Esquimalt to the same questions. When these have been received the special committee will attempt to co-ordinate them and return the tenders to the three councils for ratification before bids are called.

Mayor Andrew McGavin occupied the chair for yesterday's meeting, at which all aldermen with the exception of T. W. Hawkins and John A. Worthington were present.

The city endorsed the route established in the report of R. W. Beck, public utilities expert, who advised the council on the transport question last year. The lines would extend considerably beyond the existing street car rails.

Should such a system prove unsatisfactory, Victoria would seek bids on routes following existing street car lines and including the Gorge Road, with the privilege of supporting alternate routes extended to the bidder for the city alone and for the city, Oak Bay and Esquimalt. Minor changes in routes would be permitted, under the plan, prior to signing of any contract.

Bids on any type of transportation other than gas buses may also be submitted.

TWO FARE CLAUSES
Fares will be asked on two schedules, one covering the city alone and the other the city, Oak Bay and Esquimalt.

For the privilege of operating the service in the city, the successful bidder would pay Victoria $7,500 a year, and each vehicle would pay a license of $20 semi-annually.

A deposit of $50,000 and a surety bond of $100,000 would be required by the city. The latter would be renewable yearly.

Option clauses in any contract would give the city power to purchase interests of a transport company without notice in case of default, and would empower Victoria to take over the system on six months' notice during the life of the franchise.

Any firm requiring the tender form and specifications in order to submit a bid would pay a fee of $100 for the documents.

Saanich Council

New Homes Tax Free

For the next three years the Dominion government will play Santa Claus in no uncertain terms to upwards of 500 owners of new homes in Saanich by paying all or a portion of their taxes—if they ask for it.

This announcement was made at last night's meeting of the Saanich Council.

All persons, who, since June 1, 1938, have paid for the construction of their own homes and built them to live in themselves, will have their improvement taxes paid in full by the Dominion for the first year, have half of them paid during the second year and a quarter during the third year, providing the cost of building the homes was not greater than $4,000.

And they do not have to repay federal authorities a "thin dime" back, as one councillor observed.

The provision for this windfall to new home-owners was contained in regulations governing the administering of the National Housing Act.

Under this provision, if any municipality placed before federal authorities a specified list of reverted lots, which it was prepared to sell for the nominal sum of $50 to new purchasers, then the federal government was prepared to make the concession to home builders in return.

STIMULATED BUILDING
The entire provision was based on the assumption that home builders were encouraging employment and thereby assisting in alleviating the national emergency of unemployment.

The regulation provides that all persons who build their own homes between June 1, 1938, and December 31, 1940, at a cost not exceeding $4,000 (and few Saanich homes built in the last 18 months have exceeded that amount) will receive its benefits.

It does not apply to contractors who build homes for speculative purposes.

The effect of the ruling is illustrated in the following instances:
A man who built his own home since June 1 last year paid $350 for the lot and $3,650 for construction. On the basis of the Saanich tax rate of 42 mills on land and on 20 per cent of improvements his taxes for a year would amount to $30.65.

During the first year the Dominion government pays the whole of this amount to the municipality. During the second year it pays $15.30, and during the fourth year it pays $7.65.

The council was informed that last year there were approximately 260 homes came within the scope of this benefit and this year the average was running about the same. The ruling will also apply on homes constructed until the end of next year.

In all cases the home-owners must apply to the council to have their taxes paid and their applications will be forwarded to federal authorities.

The by-law covering Saanich's participation in the scheme was passed by the council largely through the persistence of Councillor Leslie Passmore. Saanich is among the first of Vancouver Island municipalities to receive this benefit of the act.

Higher Relief Scale Sought
To meet the rising cost of living owing to war conditions, the Saanich Council last night gave unanimous support to a resolution petitioning the provincial government to increase relief allowances.

The resolution was moved by Councillor Leslie H. Passmore, Ward Seven. "I've been over to the gas house" during the last couple of days and all the C.C.F. members are advocating a higher scale of relief because of increased living costs," he said. "It's about time we did something like that."

"Yes," agreed Councillor E. C. Warren, Ward Two. "Three years ago Mr. Pearson (Hon. G. S. Pearson, Minister of Labor) admitted to us relief was just barely enough to keep the people from starving and they're pretty close to starving right now."

Councillor Warren felt the council should draw attention in its resolution to the fact Saanich was strictly a municipality of the working class, which would feel increased living costs probably sooner and more severely than some other municipalities.

Men who have left the Saanich relief rolls and enlisted for war service are principally men over 35, the younger married men still being municipal charges. F. L. Kitto, relief officer, told the council.

Councillor J. R. Scoby, Ward Three, asked how it was that 34 had left the relief rolls since September 1 but 10 had been added. He wanted to know what the decrease was due to and when told it was the war he asked the ages of the enlisted men.

Drilling operations to further locate a water supply for domestic use in Saanich are being temporarily held up owing to the fact R. J. Strosser, Tacoma engineer, engaged by the council, is being employed to drill for water at the Patricia Bay airport.

All persons who took part in the success of the Halloween bonfires in Saanich were sincerely thanked by the council. Reference was made to those who had been responsible for the four fires and thanks were also tendered the two members of the St. John Ambulance Brigade who patrolled the fires.

At this time of year, YOU—like so many other people—may feel "PLAYED OUT"

To help overcome this tired, sluggish feeling, extra vitamins—more than ordinary meals provide—are often needed. Get them this effective way—in the new High-Vitamin Yeast

Why vitamins in Fresh Yeast can offer MORE EFFECTIVE HELP than vitamins alone

YOU MAY BE taking care to get plenty of vitamins. But are you feeling the benefits you expected? If not, it may be because your digestion is not working properly.

Then, you may need both extra vitamins and aid for slow digestion—to help you make fuller use of the vitamins you eat.

This double help is offered you by Fleischmann's new High-Vitamin Yeast.

More of 4 Vitamins—Most other foods contain significant amounts of only one or two vitamins, but this improved High-Vitamin Yeast supplies four! It now gives you richer amounts than ever of Vitamins A, B₁, D and G—of special importance in helping to maintain good general resistance, steady nerves, firm bones and healthy digestion, and in helping you feel energetic and buoyantly well.

Fresh Yeast's "Booster Action"—More than this—eating vitamins in fresh yeast helps "boost" their assimilation. The yeast, by helping to increase the flow of digestive juices in the stomach, aids in stimulating slow digestion. In this way, it helps you take up the vitamins you eat more quickly and thoroughly—offers more complete results than just vitamins alone.

Start today to get these extra vitamins you may need. See for yourself what a difference this eating vitamins-in-fresh-yeast can make.

Eat 2 cakes of Fleischmann's High-Vitamin Yeast for

VITAMIN A—4200 UNITS (Int.)
VITAMIN B₁—300 UNITS (Int.)
VITAMIN D—800 UNITS (Int.)
VITAMIN G—150 UNITS (Sh. Sour.)

All the average person needs (plus meals) of Vitamins A, B₁, D—and a rich supply of Vitality Vitamin G. Eat one cake ½ hour before breakfast or lunch, one ½ hour before supper. Or, if you prefer, eat the 2 cakes at one time. Simply eat it plain, or in a little water or milk.

COMFORTING VICTIMS OF BARBARISM—When the French liner Bretagne was attacked and sunk by a Nazi submarine recently, the ship was shelled while those aboard were trying to lower lifeboats. Seven were killed, and more than 30, including a number of women and children, wounded by shell-fire. Sailors aboard British naval vessels that picked up survivors, unnerved by their nightmare experience, are shown in this picture serving food and hot drinks to the victims of the new brutal war on civilians.

WEAR THIS FOR SAFE CRASHES—He's upside down—but safe. Flier tests in this rig a new safety-shoulder belt developed to lessen danger in crashes and to steady airmen while flying.

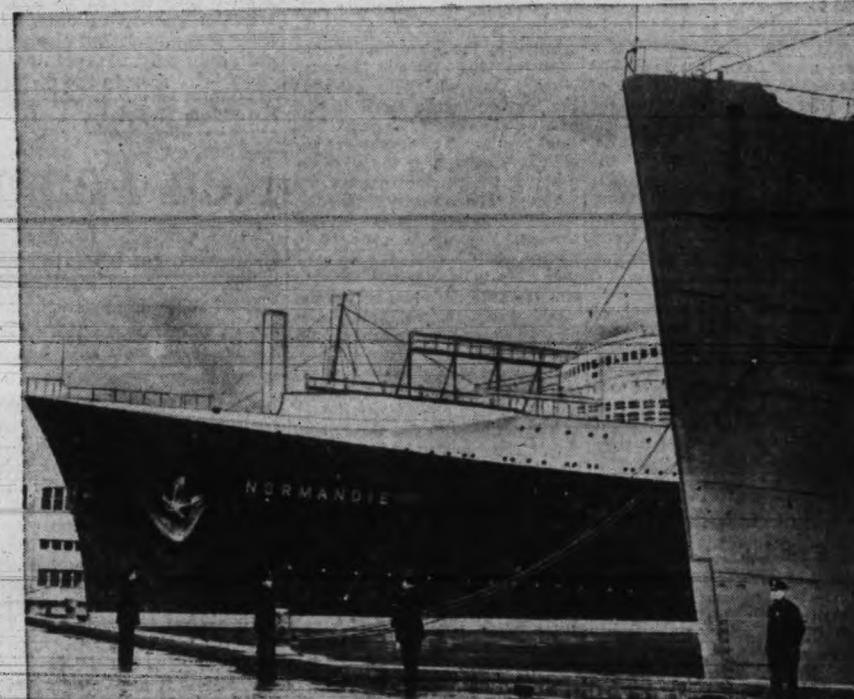

ARMS EMBARGO ENDS—Here's the finish of the hard-fought battle over repeal of the former neutrality law—President Roosevelt signing the repealed and revised measure. Left to right, witnessing the signature in the White House are: Daolph Berle, assistant secretary of state; Senator Key Pittman, chairman Senate foreign relations committee; Rep. Sol Bloom, House committee on foreign relations; Speaker William B. Bankhead, Cordell Hull, secretary of state; Vice-president John N. Garner; Senator Charles L. McNary, minority leader; Senator Alben Barkley, majority leader. (Acme telephoto).

CLOTHING BRITISH TOMMIES—The Queen visited a London workshop recently and watched the workers shown above, making uniforms for British soldiers. Although the visit was unannounced, a considerable crowd gathered on the sidewalk outside the establishment. As the Queen returned to her automobile, employees stood at the windows of the shop and cheered. British clothing factories have taken on one of the biggest jobs in their history. The scope of the task may be judged from the fact that the army has ordered, for delivery in the next six months, enough overcoats to make a 25-year supply in peacetime.

PASSENGERS INSIDE PLANE GET OUTSIDE VIEW AS IT LANDS—Passengers aboard a United Airlines plane high over New York's new Municipal Airport at North Beach, L.I., gazed in awe at this view of their plane gliding down for a landing. The image was flashed from the ground by R.C.A. engineers conducting the first demonstration of television inside an airplane. A photographer aboard the plane shot this picture of the image on the screen.

GUARDED—Police guard has been doubled at the New York docks of France's super-liner Normandie and Britain's giant Queen Mary following information of a sabotage plot. The Queen Mary, at right, is painted a sombre, camouflage grey with her crew aboard ready to take her to sea as a Canadian troop transport, while the Normandie retains its customary black and white.

CO-OPERATION MANIFEST—When President Lebrun visited the post of command of Admiral Darian, head of the French Navy, among the officers he met were the members of the British naval mission to the French Admiralty. President Lebrun here shakes hands with Capt. Holland, chief of the British mission sent to aid in co-ordinating British and French efforts in the war against Hitlerism.

IMPORTANT POST—Appointment of interest to Canada is that of Ashley Cooper, Governor of the Hudson's Bay Company, as head of the finance department of the British Ministry of Supplies. Mr. Cooper will devote his entire time to his new post for the duration of the war.

RED CROSS WORKER—"Victor," a six-month-old St. Bernard dog, owned by Mrs. G. C. Bloomfield of Victoria, will be seen on the streets of the city in the near future, collecting funds for the Red Cross Superfluties Store, 1220 Government Street. "Victor" is on his way to the city from San Francisco and is expected to arrive next week. He will take the place of "Muggins," the white Spitz dog which collected $25,000 for the Red Cross during the Great War.

YOU CAN'T BEAT THIS SPIRIT—Irrked by restrictions which prevented racing during wartime, British sport-lovers have managed to gain a relaxation of regulations on behalf of their beloved racing. So here is Miss V. Bullock, riding home the winner of the historic Town Plate race at Newmarket. Contrevent was the winner and the French horse was victor in the Cesarewitch last year.

HERO OF TRAFALGAR HONORED—Sharing Britain's pride in one of her sons who played a mighty part in the overthrow of Napoleon, another dictator who thought to rule Europe by force, representatives of the Dominions joined in the celebration in London a few days ago of the anniversary of Nelson's decisive victory of Trafalgar. Here, about to place their wreaths at the foot of Nelson's monument in Trafalgar Square, are (left to right), S. M. Langan O'Keefe for Southern Rhodesia; S. F. Waterson for South Africa; J. L. Murphy for New Zealand; Rt. Hon. Stanley M. Bruce, High Commissioner for Australia, and Hon. Vincent Massey, High Commissioner for Canada.

STRAWBERRIES IN VICTORIA—While chilly blasts and leaf-shedding trees mark the approach of winter in eastern Canada, horticultural-minded British Columbians on the west coast are picking fine, fat, full-flavored strawberries from thick beds. This picture taken recently in the garden of Mrs. Rudolph Olsen, Victoria, shows Miss Muriel Laurence with some of the luscious berries the garden has been producing. Golf, tennis, swimming and riding are among the recreations available to visitors all winter long, and inquiries at Canadian Pacific offices and reservations at the Empress Hotel indicate that Canadians in large numbers are turning to the West Coast evergreen playground for their winter holidays. This is a sample of advertising the C.P.R. is doing on the prairies and in eastern Canada to bring winter visitors to Victoria.

BUSINESS BOOM IN MINIATURE—Industriously doing his part to help along Britain's war effort is sturdy 70-year-old Tom Richardson of Dunkeld, Perthshire, Scotland's oldest maker of kilts. With 50 years in his highly-specialized pursuit behind him, he is working steadily in his little shop pictured here helping to equip the kilted regiments of "Ladies From Hell," which no enemy cares to meet.

Baseball

Nugent Seeks New Playoff

Sports Mirror

By PETE SALLAWAY

ALTHOUGH HIS proposal probably will not get to first base, President Larry MacPhail of the Brooklyn Dodgers crashed into the headlines the other day with the announcement that he was going to propose at the December meetings of the major baseball leagues a revision of post-season play to include all 16 clubs.

The plan is not new, but coming from a club official who brings one vote into the councils of the majors, it will rate consideration. In fact, President Ford Frick of the National League already is quoted to the effect that "theoretically, it's a good idea."

One thing must be said in favor of MacPhail's suggestion—it is a move away from the stagnation that continuous participation of the New York Yankees in the world's series has created. Undoubtedly, its adoption would detract, in a measure, from the glamour of the fall classic, but it is doubted if there would be any reduction in the gate receipts, because there always have been more applications for reserved seats than tickets available.

Furthermore, his proposal of having the teams meet each other in the order in which they finished in their respective leagues would have worked out fairly well the past season and would have proved an attraction in many of the cities where they would have been played. Undoubtedly, numerous fans would have turned out to see the Boston Red Sox meet the St. Louis Cardinals, the Cleveland Indians play Brooklyn and Detroit oppose the New York Giants. The Chicago city series would have gone on just the same. However, it is doubtful if anybody would have made much money out of Washington, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia Athletics-Boston Bees series, as no one would very readily be expected to enthuse about underwriting a similar session between the St. Louis Browns and Phillies.

The big hitch in MacPhail's plan, so far as the American League is concerned, is the proviso that each game in the inter-league series would count equally and that the league winning the larger total of games would gain the league supremacy title for that season. As long as the Yankees are the Yankees, the junior league undoubtedly would be content to let the world's laurels rest with them.

The Brooklyn executive is determined, it is said, to make the 16-club fan series an issue in the National League this winter and, if successful there, will throw down the gauntlet to the American. And don't think he won't press the challenge. As a doughty fighter, Sir Lancelot of King Arthur's court had nothing on Sir Larry of Flatbush and his merry crew, including Lippy Leo Durocher and his battling bravos. At any rate, Barnum of baseball, or not, MacPhail has come up with an idea for appeasement in a situation which has caused widespread demands for a change. It is up to the knights of the Major League Round Table to decide what to do with his tournament plan.

"The House of Quality Footwear and Service"

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Gerry Nugent, president of the Philadelphia Phillies, came up today with a counter-proposal to Larry MacPhail's plan to supplant the world series with post-season games between American and National League baseball clubs according to their standings.

It was: Why not adopt the Shaughnessy playoff system, with the winners of the final playoff meeting in a world series?

Connie Mack gave the idea as a frigid reception as he had the suggestion of MacPhail, executive vice-president of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

"It's all right for the minors but it won't do for the majors," commented the 76-year-old leader of the Philadelphia Athletics. "I'll never agree to anything but the first place finishers playing in the world series. I disagree with any kind of playoffs."

PLAN ALL WET

"MacPhail's plan is all wet compared to the results that have been attained by the Shaughnessy playoffs in the minor leagues," Nugent asserted. "Why not start the regular season April 15 and end it on September 15 or 20. The final two weeks of September are always washouts at the gate except for the pennant contenders."

The Shaughnessy playoffs would stimulate interest at this time and keep the fans pepped up for the world series. With any of four clubs in each league likely to win the title and qualify for the world series, interest among the players as well as the fans would never die.

Under the Shaughnessy system, the team finishing first in the regular season plays a best three-of-five series with the third-place club. The team finishing second meets the fourth-place club in a similar series. The winners then meet in the best-of-seven series.

Nugent said that under the Shaughnessy system the New York Yankees, who slaughtered Cincinnati in the world series last month, might have been eliminated by the Boston Red Sox.

Maybe he has something there.

WANTS SIX-DAY WEEK

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Sam Breadon, president of St. Louis Cardinals, who started the idea of postponing midweek games in order to schedule synthetic Sunday doubleheaders, suggested yesterday putting baseball officially on the six-day week.

He said he would propose at the major league meetings in Cincinnati next month that the schedule-makers plan open dates on Mondays and doubleheaders on Sundays for all those clubs which want such an arrangement.

Under Breadon's plan, the two-day week would start on the second Sunday of the season.

Frank Troeh Sets World Trap Record

PORTLAND, Ore.—Frank H. Troeh, noted Portland trap shooter, established a world's record in breaking 95.93 per cent of 1,450 targets from the 24-yard line during the 1939 season. O. N. Ford of Del Monte, Calif., vice-president of the Pacific International Trapshooting Association, revealed yesterday.

Other coast shooters high in tournament competition included: Albert Elasho, Monterey, Calif.; Carl Vining, Sacramento; E. Carsten Jr., Camino, Calif.; Fred Dambacher, Walnut Grove, Calif.; J. W. Crane, Turlock, Calif.; O. S. Ballew, Yakima, Wash.; C. D. Plank, San Francisco; J. B. Troeh, Eugene, and M. G. Henkel, Portland.

WHEN NOTRE DAME TOOK THE ARMY—Taking the breaks on an Army fumble and later an intercepted pass, Notre Dame did the expected by blanking the cadets 14 to 0 in their annual football clash at New York last Saturday. Above is a bit of action as the game got under way. Piepul of the Irish is being downed after a return of the kickoff. Also seen in the picture are Stitko (8) Notre Dame and Czak (66) of Army.

English Rugby

Rep Team Prospects

Youth and speed, the combination that sparked Victoria's "Crimson Tide" to the provincial English rugby championship last season, will form the Tide's personnel again this season, a pre-season survey today indicates.

Although manager Bob McInnes and Coach Wally Brynjolfson, on whose shoulders has been placed the job of forming a strong unit to defend the laurels held by the Capital City, have not lined up the "Rep" candidates at this early date, a check-up of the best material available for the 1939-40 McKechnie Cup campaign shows that practically all are fleet-footed youths.

The chances of the local "Reps" retaining possession of the coveted title look good. For practically all those players who formed the team that beat Vancouver "Reps" in the final last year will be able to don the "Rep" uniform, provided, of course, that is the wish of the selection committee. Another reason for this optimistic outlook lies in the fact that in McInnes and Brynjolfson, Victoria has two fine team-developers. They are former players who know all the fine points of the English game.

Many of last year's "Rep" players have been playing Canadian rugby for Victoria Reellers for the last two or three months, and judging from comment in that camp, all are planning to rejoin the English rugby ranks as soon as the grid season is over—which will be toward the latter part of the month.

Nine of last year's "Rep" players are with the Reellers. Their association with the Canadian game should improve their tackling ability for the English game. But the coaches will have to concentrate on developing their passing game, which is not used much in the Canadian code.

Reellers players who will be available are Ian Acland, 220-pound forward; Harry Barber, five-eighths or three-quarter; Tubby Ley, forward; Bob Mair, forward; Groff and Brent Murdoch, three-quarters; Bill Thompson, three-quarter or forward; Bill Gornall, forward, and Jack Grogan, fullback.

Three of last year's "Reps" who are in the army, Tom Carney, Doug Bray and Doug Willard, will probably be available for intercity competition this year. It is expected that Bill Smith, smart five-eighths of the Navy, will be able to turnout. Other "Rep" players who should be available are Bert Simpson, George Langdon, Bill Halkett and Buzz Brown. It is not known whether Campbell Forbes is planning to take a playing part in rugby this year, or whether he will content himself with coaching the Oak Bay Wanderers. Campbell was a "Rep" man last year. In addition there will be available some young material up from the intermediate ranks.

The Crimson Tide will make its first start in the McKechnie Cup series in Vancouver on December 2, pitted against Varsity. The "Rep" selection committee should name the "Rep" candidates shortly so that the coach can start whipping them into shape.

Coach Bill Brodigan of the Northwestern Intermediate "A" boys' basketball team, has called a workout for this evening at the Sports Centre at 8. All players are asked to attend.

Table Tennis

MacDonalds Are Leaders

MacDonald Electric took over sole occupation of the leadership berth in the first division of the Victoria Table Tennis Association when they handed Pitzer and Nex a 23 to 13 defeat in the Crystal Garden playing quarters last night.

The defeat tumbled the gasmen who have shared the top spot with the Macs for two weeks, into the second position. Smart playing by Wilmot Browne-Cave and Vic Tully sparked the electricians to victory. They posted six and seven victories out of eight games respectively.

Liberty Cafe took the measure of Ajax 26 to 10, and Renfrew Brothers humbled Murphy Electronics 22 to 14.

Lawrie Greenwood, Henry Jarvis and Tom Chattell starred for the cafemen. Greenwood made a clean sweep in the singles; Chattell scored seven victories and Jarvis six.

Ab Renfrew set the victory pace for Renfrew Brothers. He had only one defeat in eight games.

Individual scores follow:

MacDonald Electric—Singles: Browne-Cave 6, Tully 7, Craven 5, Lynch 3. Doubles: Browne-Cave and Tully 6, Craven and Lynch 2.

Pitzer and Nex—Singles: Cotton 5, Dawson 3, Henry 1, Walker 2. Doubles: Cotton and Walker 1, Dawson and Henry 1.

Liberty Cafe—Singles: Greenwood 8, Jarvis 6, Rigby 2, Chattell 7. Doubles: Greenwood and Jarvis 2, Rigby and Chattell 1.

Ajax—Singles: Hepple 1, Mackay 3, Holstein-Rathlough 4, O'Connell 1. Doubles: Mackay and O'Connell 1, Hepple and Holstein-Rathlough 0.

Renfrew Bros.—Singles: Renfrew 7, Crombie 4, Ketcheson 4, Elworthy 5. Doubles: Renfrew and Ketcheson 1, Crombie and Elworthy 1.

Murphy Electronics—Singles: W. Robinson 5, D. Robinson 2, Peebles 5, D. Hawkes 0. Doubles: W. Robinson and Peebles 1, D. Robinson and D. Hawkes 1.

Marquart Meets Any Lightweight

NEW YORK (AP)—Reason Rabbit Marquart got the gate at Albany was because Pittsburgh Pirates wouldn't consent to a working agreement with Albany unless they named the manager.

Broadway mystery: Billy Conn broke training for the Gus Lesnevich fight at Madison Square Garden November 17 and caught a plane for Pittsburgh. . . . here are some clues for the Pittsburgh sherlocks. . . . did Billy go home (a) to see his heart; (b) to vote, or (c) because of a row with Manager Johnny Ray?

Nova Scotia points are dicker with Tony Galento for a refereeing tour. . . . Tomboy Patty Berg, the golferette, has succumbed to feminine ways and will be a bridesmaid at her sister's wedding.

According to Mike Jacobs' front office, Billy Marquart's next foe will be "any lightweight in the country who disputes Marquart's claim to a title fight with champion Lou Ambers."

Angott of Louisville, Ky., self-styled No. 1 challenger who dropped two decisions to the heavy-hitting Winnipegger. . . . Ben Moroz, Billy Duff's giant heavyweight hope, made his debut last night by knocking out Young Hippo with a light left jab to the head. . . . the customers rewarded the performance with a hee-haw.

Dominic DiMaggio Is Most Valuable

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Joe DiMaggio's kid brother, Dominic, is keeping the family name in lights out on the west coast.

The third of the famous outfielders brothers—Joe, Vincent and Dominic—today was named by the Sporting News as the most valuable player in the Pacific Coast League last season.

Young DiMaggio, who starred with San Francisco Seals, accumulated 49 points in voting by the league's official scorers.

MELBOURNE CUP

MELBOURNE, Australia (CP)—One hundred thousand spectators saw Rivette, owned and trained by H. Bamber and favorite at 5 to 1, win the £10,000 ($31,850) Melbourne Cup by a half length from W. J. Winterbottom's Malkai yesterday. M. Lundens Pantler was third, three-quarters of a length behind in a field of 26. Odds on Malkai were 9 to 1 and Pantler 14 to 1.

Rivette won the $6,500 ($20,700) Caulfield Cup two weeks ago from Malkai.

JOHN MURDOCH DIES SUDDENLY

VANCOUVER (CP)—Inspector John Murdoch, head of the Vancouver police department's automobile testing station here and former deputy police chief, died in hospital yesterday following a sudden illness.

He joined the Point Grey municipal police force in 1912 as a constable and eight years later was made a sergeant. In 1928 he was appointed chief constable of the force.

Murdoch held the Canadian caber-tossing record of 43 feet 11 inches and competed in weight-throwing events at the Paris Olympics, although he failed to finish in the top ranks.

Following the Paris Games, however, he competed against Empire athletes at London, where he won the hammer throw with a distance of 161 feet three inches. This was not a record distance.

He established his caber-throwing record here in 1927. He was also British Columbia 56-pound weight-throwing champion in 1922 and when younger was a good sprinter.

Vancouver Ice Team All Set

VANCOUVER (CP)—Manager Guy Patrick of Vancouver Lions in the Pacific Coast Hockey League yesterday said he has all his team for the coming season signed up with the exception of Frank Jerwa, whom he hopes to purchase from Seattle.

Eleven players, eight of them in the line-up last season, have signed contracts, Patrick said. The other three, whose playing forms have been filled out are Owen Lennon, who played for Spokane last year; Jean Pusie, with St. Louis in the American Association last season, and Johnny Clark, spare goalie who has been inactive since playing with Lions two years ago.

Regulars returning to the Vancouver squad's line-up are Bill Hutton, Lorne Mercer, Jack Adams, Bus Wood, Tip O'Neill, Percy Jackson, Lude Palm and Morey Rimstad.

Patrick said that he had tried out several rookies but that they failed to show sufficient form to make places on the team.

Should Revellers score their first victory, they will be tied for the third spot in the league, with the Lions. The Lions have only one win and that was over Victoria in the second game of the locals played in the season.

If Victoria ties things up, the schedule play-off system will be slightly askew. The first and third teams and second and fourth teams were to meet in the semifinals on November 18, one game here and one game in Vancouver with the two winners meeting in the final in Vancouver on November 23. Should a tie result, play-off arrangements will have to be changed.

Investigate World Series Broadcast

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Communication Commission is reopening its study of possible monopoly in the United States radio industry. It was learned yesterday, to include an investigation of the broadcasting of the world series baseball games last month.

The Mutual broadcasting system obtained exclusive rights to the world series broadcasts and offered the service to independent stations and to those affiliated with other chains, as well as to its own members.

The F.C.C. was understood to have information some affiliates of other chains accepted the Mutual offer and broadcast the first game, but were then threatened with cancellation of their chain contracts if they continued the broadcasts and thereupon discontinued them.

NO WARFARE FOR HIM

FINALLY MADE CLASSIC

Confident of Scoring Win Over Shores

Coach George Deacon's Victoria Revellers Canadian football machine is undergoing final polishing processes prior to their meeting North Shore Lions in Vancouver Saturday in the final "Big Four" league game of the season.

Blackboard lectures and field practice, concentrating on passing and kicking plays, were included in last evening's workout with the last practice before the game scheduled for tomorrow night.

Deacon has the boys in top shape and looks for a win Saturday over last year's league winners. The team is by no means broken in spirit and, on the whole, is confident of taking the Lions.

Even though 210-pounder Ian Acland will not be able to make the trip, Deacon is confident the Victoria line will be able to hold off the offerings of the Lions.

Acland's inside-wing position will be taken again by Mike Ley who showed up well in the spot against the Knights of Columbus game two weeks ago when the locals lost a close decision, 12 to 8.

LOCAL SQUAD

The same team taken for that game will make this week's trip. The centres will be Bus Anderson, Bill Brodigan and Bill Yardeley; inside wings, Alan Wright, Mike Ley, Pete Morgan and Frank Harris; middle wings, Jack MacDonald, Dave Jenkins and Bob Mair; ends, Hank Rowe, Bill Thompson, Don McLean and Jim Skellern; quarterbacks, Groff Murdoch, captain, and Sid Anderson; centre halves, Andy Boland and Tom McKeachie; halfbacks, Brent Murdoch, Harry Barber, Jack Grogan and Doug Lawford; flying wings, Don Garrison and Bill Gornell.

Should Revellers score their first victory, they will be tied for the third spot in the league, with the Lions. The Lions have only one win and that was over Victoria in the second game of the locals played in the season.

If Victoria ties things up, the schedule play-off system will be slightly askew. The first and third teams and second and fourth teams were to meet in the semifinals on November 18, one game here and one game in Vancouver with the two winners meeting in the final in Vancouver on November 23. Should a tie result, play-off arrangements will have to be changed.

VICTORIA ASKS PARKING METERS

Mayor Andrew McGavin and Forrest Shaw, city solicitor, appeared before the municipal committee of the Legislature today to present Victoria's case for various amendments to the Municipal Act.

The committee spent the morning discussing various changes with municipal authorities, but postponed its decisions.

Victoria sought the right to install parking meters, the mayor explaining the use of them might help solve Victoria's peculiar parking problem.

Another clause in which Victoria was interested would give the city power to replace any of its bonds lost or destroyed. Certain safeguards are provided to care for such cases.

Mayor Fred Hume of New Westminster submitted arguments for that city's plan to enter the stevedoring business. He explained that the city has a big investment in the development of its port, and feels entitled to go into the business, just as it operates its electric lighting plant and city market.

ANNOUNCE AWARDS

Prizewinners in the Japanese Amateur Chrysanthemum Growers' Association flower show, at 725 Pandora Avenue, are announced.

Twenty-seven firsts, 25 seconds and 12 thirds were taken by the Junction Cleaners. N. Watanabe won 26 firsts, 47 seconds and 25 thirds. K. Ise won 25 first places, 23 seconds and 18 thirds.

Central Cleaners had 6 firsts, 7 seconds and 4 thirds. G. Ishiguro had 4 firsts, 2 seconds and 1 third with S. Okamoto winning 3 firsts, 6 seconds and 5 thirds. Mrs. B. Kuwabara placed first in two sections and had one second, while K. Morita had a first, a second and a third. I. Kakuno had 1 first and 1 second, and M. Kawasoe had 1 first and 3 thirds. Sun Cleaners had 3 seconds, Y. Kusumi had 1 second and Mrs. Tamaki had 1 third.

A cup presented by G. Ishiguro for the best "Earl Kitchener" bloom was won by Central Cleaners with Junction Cleaners second and N. Watanabe third.

Notes of Legislature

Conservatives today launched a drive for the right to examine in public accounts committee expenditures made outside the fiscal year 1938-1939 which have been referred to the committee.

After Conservatives had refused this right this morning R. L. Maitland, K.C., Conservative leader, prepared a notice of motion to the House itself asking permission to go into expenditures made prior to April 1, 1938.

Mr. Maitland also asked for all details of expenditure on the San Francisco fair exhibit, the Kingsgate-Radium road work, and all other road contracts.

E. T. Kenney, Liberal, Skeena, was named chairman and Thomas King, Liberal, Columbia, secretary of the committee at its first meeting.

The game commission will be given power to make regulations regarding the use of birds in field trials by an amendment to the Game Act, sponsored by Attorney-General Wismer.

Changes planned in the Innkeepers Act will permit a hotel operator to sell a guest's belongings for his bill after holding them for three months. At present they must be held 12 months. It also permits a hotelman to put anyone but a registered guest off the premises if he is objectionable and protects a hotelman for loss of a guest's valuables if he makes it plain he has no safe.

Officials under the Fire Marshal's Act will be given powers of a provincial police officers under another bill.

An inquiry by the Agriculture Committee into price of feed grains and particularly price increases since the war began is urged by L. A. Shepherd, C.C.F., Delta, in a notice of motion filed today.

Twelve bills had reached the floor at the end of yesterday's sitting as the House began to bite into its legislative fare.

Three of them are private bills, including the annual Vancouver charter amendments. Attorney-General Wismer introduced a measure extending the moratorium law another year, and another which sets up the law of commorients—last survivor—in this province.

L. H. Eyres, Conservative, Chilliwack, presented his bill to include lime quarry workers in the Semi-monthly Payment of Wages Act.

John M. Imrie, vice-president and managing director of the Edmonton Journal, is a visitor to Victoria today, accompanied by Mrs. Imrie. They will be at the Empress Hotel for a couple of days before returning to Edmonton.

City Expects Good Surplus

Prospects of a substantial surplus at the end of the year were seen at the City Hall today as consideration was given to means whereby the city will meet the $150,000 allocation due in 1940 under the Fortin refunding scheme for retirement of Victoria's bonded indebtedness.

Favorable tax collections so far this year have exceeded, on a percentage basis, those of 1938 when the estimate was exceeded.

Other revenue sources, including water and collections other than taxation, are reported to show favorable balances.

Departments generally have heeded the warning given earlier in the year by Mayor Andrew McGavin against over-spending and continued policies of economy have been rigidly enforced.

The action of the government in assuming a more equitable share of unemployment costs has relieved the city, to a large extent, of the possibility of an operating deficit in the welfare office and controllable expenditure has been kept well in hand.

Public works activities have been assisted to a certain extent by the federal-provincial agreement whereby labor costs of specified projects are absorbed by the senior government.

Officials declined to comment on the amount of surplus that might be available, pointing to possible contingencies during the next two months, but the impression was gathered that the balance would be favorable to the city when books were closed for 1939.

Women's Service Club Inspected

With 230 members of the British Columbia Women's Service Club participating in the march past, Mrs. E. W. Hamber, honorary provincial president, took the salute at her first formal inspection of the Victoria unit at the Memorial Hall on Monday evening.

The members all wore their smart new uniforms of white tailored blouse with navy tie and navy skirt, with colored armbands designating their company, and Mrs. Hamber wore her red armband, with its gold maple leaves centering the initials B.C.W.S.C., two gold stars and four gold bars denoting her rank. The officers wear a smart navy blue coat with their uniform and badges denoting their rank and company.

Mrs. Hamber, who was accompanied by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Mae Rice, after inspecting the drill under the direction of Mrs. H. A. Tomalin, visited the various instructional classes with Mrs. Norman Kennedy, provincial controller.

"A" Company was in its clerical instruction class, studying army rules and procedure under the direction of Mr. E. J. Read. "B" Company, which is being trained by Colonel the Honorable F. G. Hood, was engaged in map reading; "C" Company, under the direction of Mr. C. Filewood, was attending a first aid class; "D" Company's activities were devoted to matters connected with the commissariat, under the direction of Miss Lawson, a qualified dietitian; "E" Company, which is the probationer group, was studying elementary mechanics under the direction of Mr. Phil McQuade.

Mrs. Hamber was much impressed by the smart appearance of the members, her admiring comments being echoed by the other guests, who included Commander F. G. Hart, R.C.N.; Col. H. C. Greer, Colonel and Mrs. Aubrey Kent, Colonel J. R. Kingham, Major P. T. Stern, Mr. H. J. Davis and Bishop Sexton, club chaplain, and the patronesses, Mrs. Walter Nichol, Mrs. R. W. Mayhew and Mrs. Alan Morkill.

TOWN TOPICS

The Greater Victoria Junior Philatelic Society will meet Friday evening at Terry's at 7.30.

The monthly meeting of the Vancouver Island Outboard Association will be held at the clubrooms, 1342 Pandora Avenue, this evening at 8.

Native Sons of Canada, Victoria Assembly No. 1, will meet tomorrow night at 8 in the Foresters' Hall. The officers-elect will be installed by the past national president, followed by supper.

The next meeting of the Men's Parish Guild of Christ Church Cathedral will be held in the Memorial Hall tomorrow evening at 8, when J. C. Kingzett will speak on "Twenty-five Years in Madagascar," the meeting being open to men generally.

An executive meeting of the Victoria High School Alumni Association was held at the Cat'n Fiddle on Tuesday. Plans were discussed for various activities to be put into effect as soon as possible. It was decided, however, to hold the next dance on December 1 at the Crystal Garden.

A new regulation under the Game Act announced by the provincial government today forbids the sale of sport and game fish taken by angling from non-tidal waters of the province. All varieties of trout, black bass, Rocky Mountain white fish and char are included in the ban.

Tonight R. E. Wemp, Dominion field secretary, will address a British-Israel Association meeting in the First Baptist Church at 8. His subject will be "Great Britain, Servant and Leader." Tomorrow and Friday Mr. Wemp will give addresses on "Confounding the Critics," and an illustrated address on "The Great Pyramid."

This evening at 8.15 Miss Eugenie Perry, former president of Victoria Branch Canadian Authors' Association, will speak on "Women Poets of Canada" at the rooms of the Victoria Club for Hard-of-Hearing, 1414 Douglas Street. All hard-of-hearing persons and their friends are invited to make use of the group hearing-aid belonging to the club.

Members of the Pro Patria Branch of the Canadian Legion were advised at a meeting last night to wear medals, poppies and civilian clothes for the Remembrance Day parade on Saturday. Legion members will assemble on Humboldt Street, between Douglas and Government Streets, at 10.15 in the morning and move off at 10.35. The branch voted $225 to the Community Chest and a grant of $10 was made to the Kinsmen Club Boys' Band. The branch decided to pay one-third the cost of a moving picture projector for the use of the B.C. Coast Brigade, R.C.A.

TREKKERS SAFE

John T. Logan, 25-year-old former hardware merchant of Portland, Ore., and Charles C. Williams, 58, veteran northern trekker, unreported since September 24 in their motorcycle trek over the proposed British Columbia-Alaska highway route, are safe at a farmhouse, 50 miles north of Hazelton.

Word of their safety was received yesterday at B. C. Police headquarters by short wave radio from Prince Rupert. Divisional headquarters at the latter point were notified directly from Hazelton.

Logan, the son of a prominent surgeon at Mayo Clinic, Rochester, and Williams had been the object of an airplane search arranged by B. C. Police at Mr. Logan's instigation last Saturday.

It was reported both men were in good condition after being held up by heavy snows. They are expected to continue their journey.

Local Delegates To Y.P. Meeting

Forty delegates from Victoria will attend the annual conference of the United Church Young People's Societies in New Westminster Saturday and Sunday.

Gordon Holtby, Haney, vice-president of the provincial conference, will preside at the Saturday afternoon session, while Fred H. Fullerton, retiring provincial president, will be in charge of the annual banquet program and business meeting to be held Saturday evening. The banquet speaker will be J. G. Robson, prominent B.C. lumber executive.

Miss Dorothy Anderson and Miss Margaret Putnam, conference secretaries, report that all arrangements have been completed, and that the idea of holding this conference early in the season, instead of in the spring when the work of many societies was drawing to a close for the summer, has proven popular.

Labor Indicates British Temper

"We are going to defeat Hitler," said B. Ward Perkins, retired Londoner for many years in the Indian civil service, in an interview at the Union Club today.

He is on his way to Virginia Beach, Va., to attend the Institute of Pacific Relations conference, transferred from Victoria owing to the war.

In support of his positive assertion as to the final outcome of the war, Mr. Perkins pointed to the determination of labor in Great Britain to do everything in its power to decisively stamp out the menace of aggression in Europe.

"Labor meant business just before the outbreak of war when an important agreement was reached by the Engineering and Allied Employers' National Federation and the Amalgamated Engineering Union guaranteeing adequate labor forces in the engineering industry which is responsible for the production of armaments," said Mr. Perkins. "That, more than anything else, showed the temper of the country."

"If Hitler had showed any sense he would have called the war off right then. But he'd already divided the spoils with Stalin and it was too late."

LABOR'S EFFORT

The essence of the Labor agreement in Britain, pointed out Mr. Perkins, was adherence to a pact which authorized "temporary dilution" of the industry by providing for the use of semi-skilled labor in addition to the skilled crafts in the armament plants.

Under the agreement there would be no relaxation of standard practice, but "dilution" will be authorized by joint committees of the employers and the union.

The possibility of taxing all available labor resources to the limit by the ever-increasing demand for armaments resulted in the agreement being promptly reached between labor and employers. Under the arrangement skilled labor will be made to go further and semi-skilled men will be substituted for skilled men when and where, through the insufficiency of skilled men, production might be hampered.

The agreement will continue in effect during the period of the war emergency.

NO PROFITEERING

"Labor is satisfied there will be no profiteering in this war and the workers are united to exert every effort to win the struggle," said Mr. Perkins.

On being questioned concerning the possibility of a patched up peace, in view of the peace efforts being launched in neutral countries, Mr. Perkins expressed the view that an unsatisfactory peace would mean revolution in Britain.

Mr. Perkins came to British Columbia to visit his sisters, Mrs. H. MacIver, at Kelowna, and Mrs. P. Passmore at Nelson.

He is a member of Chatham House and was invited to contact the affiliated branches here.

British Metal Policy Hits Japan

Britain's new base metal buying policy, under which she will take the entire Canadian export, will operate in practice as a partial embargo at least on the shipment of Canadian war metals to Japan, long urged by peace groups in this province, officials of the mines department explained today.

So far as British Columbia is concerned, it was explained, Japan is the second biggest customer for both lead and zinc, which come under the new arrangement with Britain. The entire exports of these metals from the province will now go to Britain.

Thus, though there is no legal embargo, shipments of lead and zinc that have been going from this province to Japan, will now be diverted to Britain.

The United Kingdom already takes the major share of this province's output. In 1937, last year on which figures are available, the United Kingdom took $10,000,000 worth of lead out of a total export of $17,000,000. But Japan took $4,000,000 worth that will now go to Britain.

In zinc the province exported $9,000,000 worth. Britain took $6,000,000 of this and Japan, again the second largest buyer, took $1,250,000.

Elisha Mayfield of Liard, Lower Post, Peace River, was appointed stipendiary magistrate and coroner by government order today. Shaen H. Anderson of Hornby Island was made a justice of the peace and the commission of R. J. Walker of Quathiaski Cove as a stipendiary magistrate was canceled.

Obituaries

KINGSBURY—Funeral services for Mrs. Ida May Kingsbury will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at 2 at the Sands Mortuary Chapel. Rev. Hugh A. McLeod will officiate, and interment will be in the family plot in Ross Bay Cemetery.

GRAY—Funeral services for John Fred Gray were held yesterday afternoon. Dean Spencer H. Elliott officiated, during which one hymn, "Rock of Ages," was sung. Interment took place in the family plot at Ross Bay Cemetery, the following acting as pallbearers: Robert Barton, F. A. Graham, Harry Kerkin, Robert Martin, Peter Tantz and George Dyson. S. J. Curry and Son had charge of arrangements.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mrs. Walter H. Grassie, 78, wife of a pioneer Vancouver jeweler who came to Vancouver shortly after the big fire of 1886, died yesterday after a short illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Grassie, both born in Seaford, Ont., celebrated their golden wedding anniversary June 3, 1935.

Her husband and a daughter, Mrs. Frank B. McElroy, survive her.

LIEUT. GOVERNOR VISITS RED CROSS

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Hamber, accompanied by Mrs. Mae Rice and A. M. D. Fairbairn, paid a visit to the distributing centre of the Red Cross Society in the Belmont Building this morning.

They were received by Brig.-Gen. J. G. Austin and Bishop Sexton, together with other members of the executive committee, and spent about an hour inspecting the work being carried on.

Mrs. Hamber was particularly interested in the work being done by the ladies, who are making nightshirts, pyjamas and other garments, surgical pads and knitting socks on the special machine.

The visitors were also shown through the supply room and the method of distribution to the various units was explained.

MAYOR WATCHES POPPIES MADE

Mayor Andrew McGavin, accompanied by Aldermen B. J. Gadsden, D. D. McTavish and W. H. Davies, paid his annual visit to the Red Cross Workshop today to inspect the plant where poppies and poppy wreaths are made for distribution throughout the province.

The city group was greeted by Alderman S. H. Okell, in charge of the workshop; Harold Butcher, manager of the poppy campaign in Victoria; Charles Hensley, chairman of the workshop committee; Lieut.-Gen. Sir Percy Lake and F. W. Jones, members of the workshop committee.

Under the direction of Alderman Okell the party was conducted through the shop and saw the disabled veterans at their tasks in woodwork, metal work, picture framing and other departments. At the close of the tour they watched men engaged in the manufacture of wreaths.

The mayor complimented the men and the organization on the excellent work they were turning out, wished them success in the future, and expressed the hope the poppy campaign would receive wide support from the public.

RARE BLOOMS TO AID SOLARIUM

Of interest to flower and garden enthusiasts will be the chrysanthemum show and sale on Saturday afternoon, November 11, at the garden of Mr. Takahashi, 42 George Road. Mr. Takahashi has generously donated all his prize plants to the Queen Alexandra Solarium Junior League to be sold or auctioned and the entire proceeds turned over to the Solarium.

Among them will be many beautiful and rare blooms imported from Japan and not grown by anyone else in Canada. The plants will be on display from 12 noon Saturday and sold throughout the afternoon. Tea will also be served inside the house for those who wish it, and is included in the small admission charge.

The committee in charge of the arrangements includes Mrs. Ian McCallum, Mrs. Denis Humphries, Miss Barbara Van Kleek, Miss Kay Cullum, under the convener of Miss Patricia Cattroll. Tickets for admission may be secured from Mrs. F. Waring or any member of the organization. Assisting in tea room will be the Misses Jeanne Chatham, Nan Hutton and Dorcen Cattroll.

An Inter-school Christian Fellowship rally will be held on Saturday evening at 7.30 in the Victoria High School auditorium, when Herbert Butt, B.A., of Seaford, will speak.

War Work Leaders Report On Efforts

Efforts being made by the joint committee of the Chamber of Commerce and the local branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association to investigate the possibilities of manufacturing wartime necessities in Victoria were discussed by speakers at this afternoon's luncheon meeting of the Chamber of Commerce in Spencer's dining-room.

Details of the committee's work were outlined by J. E. Goldring and J. A. Heritage, co-ordinators named by the committee, who are at present engaged in establishing contacts between Victoria manufacturers and Ottawa.

Both co-ordinators paid warm tribute to the valuable assistance they had received from R. W. Mayhew, M.P., in their work, referring to him as an invaluable man for the city. Mr. Goldring and Mr. Heritage emphasized the success of their committee depended on the wholehearted co-operation of local business houses.

The committee, they said, was acting as a clearing house through which any inquiries might be made by local manufacturers or authorities at Ottawa. It was their intention to mass together information as to just what Victoria could produce and let authorities at the federal capital have full details. In this way Victoria manufacturers would be placed in line to receive their share of the work, providing their tendered prices were right.

FINE OPPORTUNITY

Mr. Mayhew said he had been informed while in Ottawa that Canada would be a second source of supply to the Allies, and the forming of a committee of trained business men offered local manufacturers a fine opportunity to receive the business and also fulfill their obligations to the British Empire.

A fair share of business had already been received here largely through the committee's efforts, he said. In this connection he urged all organizations to support the claim Victoria was making to have the Dominion training station for air force pilots stationed here. Investigations he had made, results of which had been forwarded to Ottawa, proved the city to be the most satisfactory in Canada for the location of the training base.

Other speakers were R. L. Challenor, president of the Victoria section of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, and Duncan MacBride, president of the chamber, who presided.

Mr. MacBride made an appeal for support of the Community Chest and the Red Cross joint appeal.

BAN ON 'HUSH' EFFECTIVE HERE

On instructions from city police following the policy adopted elsewhere in Canada all copies of the Toronto tabloid Hush have been banned from news stands of Victoria.

The banning was carried out here without prosecutions against individual stand operators but by arrangement with the wholesale distributor.

Grounds for the ban, from a legal viewpoint, were that the sale of the paper constituted distribution of immoral literature. This occurred in the story of alleged German atrocities in the war.

Foster to Meet Legion Officials

Details of the organization of the Canadian Legion auxiliary services will be told to officials of the local branches of the legion by Brigadier W. W. Foster, D.S.O., Vancouver, Dominion president, at a meeting tonight.

The meeting will be held in the Naval Veterans' Branch of the Canadian Legion between 8 and 9. Brigadier Foster was recently appointed director of auxiliary services for Canada.

Insurance Claims Paid Billions

In Canada and the United States during the last 10 years, insurance claims paid $30,000,000,000, G. C. Cummings, Winnipeg, general manager of the Monarch Life Assurance Company, told the Victoria and Island Life Underwriters' Association at a luncheon in Terry's yesterday.

The average insurance per capita in the two countries was $600, he said, while the average holding of each insured person was $1,800. The average estate was composed of life insurance to an extent of 87 per cent.

John E. Fuller presided. W. C. Hudson thanked the speaker, on behalf of the association.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned and marked "Tender for the sinking of the battleship Royal Oak, made in the House of Commons today by Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, follows:

"It has now been established that the Royal Oak was sunk in the early hours of October 14 by a German submarine which penetrated the defences of the landlocked anchorage at Scapa Flow.

"These defences were of two kinds. First, physical obstructions by nets, booms and blockships. Second by small patrolling craft in the approaches to the various entrances or sounds, which are seven in number.

"Neither physical obstructions nor patrolling craft were in that state of strength and efficiency required to make the anchorage absolutely proof, as it should have been, against the attack of a submarine on the surface, or partly submerged at high water.

"Measures have been taken, and are being taken, to improve the physical obstructions and, indeed, the last blockship required reached Scapa Flow only the day after the disaster occurred.

FLEET MOVING
"All the more it was necessary, while these defences were still incomplete, that patrolling craft should have been particularly numerous, but from a variety of causes connected with the movement of the fleet, which was not at the time using the anchorage.

J. Manion, made public yesterday, in which the Conservative leader called attention to articles appearing in the Financial Post of Toronto, and said that unless patronage ceased his party would raise the issue when Parliament meets in January.

"I should like to repeat that the government has issued specific instructions that there is to be no patronage or favoritism in appointments, promotions, or the awarding of contracts, in relation to Canada's war effort," continued Mr. King. "I have every reason to believe these instructions have been, and are being, carried out."

"If the leader of the opposition has knowledge of any specific instances in which the government's instructions are being disregarded, and will make the details of such cases public, or communicate them to me in writing, or when Parliament assembles bring them to my attention in the House of Commons, I wish to repeat that such charges will at once be investigated. Appropriate action will, of course, be taken without delay."

"So far, the leader of the opposition has not made any charges, based upon specific information, which could provide the basis for an investigation."

B.C. Leads In Theatre Attendance
OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians continue to flock to theatres, and statistics just released by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics show an increase in receipts and admissions in 1938 for the fifth consecutive year.

A total of 137,976,052 persons attended programs offered by theatres in 1938, compared with 134,374,061 in 1937. Receipts at $33,635,052 showed an increase of 3.5 per cent.

British Columbia maintained the lead in per capita spending for film entertainment with an average of $4.81, a decline of 1 per cent from 1937. For the whole of Canada the per capita expenditure was $3.02.

Charles Laughton In 'Jamaica Inn'
With a new and piquantly beautiful star for its heroine, and Charles Laughton in the most fascinatingly sinister role of his career, "Jamaica Inn," the new Paramount release, comes Saturday to the Capitol Theatre.

The girl is 18-year-old Maureen O'Hara, selected by Laughton and Director Alfred Hitchcock to play this important lead in her first feature film role.

Miss O'Hara is romantically teamed with Robert Newton in the picturization of the Daphne du Maurier novel.

A stirring dramatic climax serves to bring the wreckers to justice and leads to the capture of Laughton aboard an English packet on which he had hoped to escape to Paris. Alfred Hitchcock directed "Jamaica Inn," which was produced by Charles Laughton in collaboration with Erich Pommer.

PLAZA THEATRE
Warren William, appearing in "The Man in the Iron Mask," the Edward Small production for United Artists release, which is now showing at the Plaza Theatre, is the ninth screen actor to portray the swash-buckling role of D'Artagnan. Others who have played this much-beloved role include Douglas Fairbanks Sr., Walter Abel and Don Ameche.

COLUMBIA THEATRE
Thrills on land as well as beneath the ocean's depths are a feature of "Titans of the Deep," featuring Dr. William Beebe and Otis Barton, which is now at the Columbia Theatre. Another unusual element is the presence of modern mermaids who think nothing of fighting deadly sea killers, single-handed. Lowell Thomas is narrator and also appears in the opening scene.

OAK BAY THEATRE
Errol Flynn and Olivia de Havilland narrowly escaped being cut by flying glass in a strange accident at Modesto, Calif., while they were on location with the Warner Bros. troupe filming "Dodge City," now showing at the Oak Bay Theatre.

Flynn and Miss de Havilland were dining together. Crowds of people, anxious to get a glimpse of the cinema stars, pressed against the windows. One of the windows suddenly collapsed inward, scattering glass across the table at which the film players were dining.

DOMINION THEATRE
From the famous novel read by millions, "Here I Am a Stranger," 20th Century-Fox has produced an off-the-beaten track drama now at the Dominion Theatre. Retaining the title of the novel by Gordon Malherbe Hillman, Darryl F. Zanuck selected Richard Greene for his first great starring role as the son, with Richard Dix featured as the father and Brenda Joyce as Simpson Daniels. Others in the cast include Ronald Young and Gladys George.

Manion's Charges Too Vague for Inquiry
OTTAWA—"I have heard the further statement of the leader of the Opposition to the effect that the undertaking that patronage would be abolished with respect to matters arising out of the war is not being carried out," says a statement issued by Prime Minister King in answer to the second statement from Hon. R.

"Such a course would, they consider, impose an additional burden upon those afloat and ashore who are engaged in an intense and deadly and not wholly unsuccessful struggle. It is upon this that all our thoughts and strength must be concentrated."

SIDE GLANCES By Galbraith
Young man, I have some liverwurst sandwiches and a jar of apple sauce in the back seat. Better have some—you'll like it."

When Sickness Comes The Call Is Answered
By night or day, in summer or winter, the Health Agencies of our community bring comfort and healing to homes where there is sickness.

It may be a Victorian Order nurse who answers the summons—

It may be the Hospital Ship speeding to an emergency call in some lonely spot—

It may be an Outpost Hospital where the flag of the Red Cross means care and protection.

Whenever and wherever the call comes, there is a story of service and unselfishness in the answer that is so willingly given to those in misfortune.

Ship Transfer Controversy On

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the face of outspoken opposition the Maritime Commission prepared for President Roosevelt today a report on the transfer of United States ships to registry in Panama which was said to hold that such action would not involve acceptance of any responsibility by the United States government.

Earlier this week the commission decided to approve transfer of eight vessels of the United States lines in order that they might continue operating to belligerent ports closed to them by the Neutrality Act. At the request of President Roosevelt, who sought time to investigate the situation himself, final action was delayed.

State Secretary Hull has expressed his opposition to the plan as contrary to the shipping restrictions of the Neutrality Act. The United States lines contained, however, that unless the transfer was made it would simply have to tie up its vessels which were in European service before the Neutrality Act became effective.

Senator William E. Borah, Idaho Republican, took issue with a presidential comment to reporters at Hyde Park, N.Y., that neutrality questions are not involved.

"Suppose Panama, in spite of her great navy, fails to protect these ships and they are sunk?" Borah asked in a statement. "Will we not go to the protection of Panama?"

"Panama, from the viewpoint of national defence, is a part of the United States. Besides, she comes under the good neighbor policy and the Monroe Doctrine." The senator, who took a leading part in the fight against the neutrality law, called the proposal "manifestly a subterfuge."

LONDON (CP)—The United States lines advertised today for British seamen and officers to serve in vessels sailing between the United States, France and Great Britain.

There was an immediate rush of British seamen and a United States official said "so quick was the response that we had to ask them (Maritime organizations) not to send any more men."

PEABODY OPPOSES SENIORITY PLAN

SEATTLE—The seniority plan of employment, proposed by the Inlandboatmen's Union, "tends to decrease harmony and efficiency," Capt. Alex M. Peabody, president of the Puget Sound Navigation Company and subsidiaries, told the arbitration board investigating last summer's 23-day ferry strike.

"Let me draw a concrete example," Peabody said. "We'll assume we have two seamen, equally efficient and able, but one is a chronic grounder and the other a natural-born mixer. Our inclination, of course, would be to hire the good-natured man. He's a better asset to our business, but seniority could prevent us from using him and force us to employ the grounder."

"If I were a seaman, for example, and knew I was protected by seniority, I'd know I was 'on ice' and that the ice could not melt, and I wouldn't be inclined to pep up my work or be afraid of some newcomer who would."

'Rising Sun' Painted On Japanese Ships

Vessels of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, arriving and departing from British Columbia ports are displaying the Japanese flag painted over their hulls above the waterline.

Ms. Hikawa Maru, running a couple of days late from Yokohama, passed quarantine at 4 this morning and proceeded to Vancouver.

She carried a total of 61 passengers, nine for Vancouver and 52 for Seattle. Her cargo for Vancouver and overland amounted to 1,610 tons and included 286 packages of silk. William Harold, city ticket agent for the Great Northern Railway, boarded the Hikawa Maru in quarantine.

Had Engine Trouble

Delay of a month in the Panama zone owing to engine trouble was reported by a British motorship which reached port yesterday afternoon from the United Kingdom. The ship was forced to remain in Panama until engine parts were shipped out. While alongside here the vessel discharged 2,200 cases of citrus, oranges, lemons and grapefruit, from Southern California, and a consignment of liquor from Glasgow.

Making Another Trip

The Ms. Parrakoola is expected to make another trip to the Pacific coast before resuming her regular run from Australian ports to Europe.

She carried a full load of freight and a capacity passenger list on her outward trip from B.C. Cargo included heavy lumber shipments, a large part of which was stowed on the main deck and several thousand drums of lube or fuel oil, destined for Australia.

The Parrakoola's running mates in this service are the Kookaburra and Goonawarra.

ADMIRALTY COURT CASE ADJOURNED

VANCOUVER (CP)—Trial of an action in Admiralty Court against Union Steamships Limited's coastal vessel Lady Pam for damages totaling $10,000 has been adjourned to an undetermined date, which will not conflict with Chief Justice Archer Martin's duties in Appeal Court, which met here today.

Clyde P. Robinson, who with Everett J. McLaren is claiming $325 damages for loss of personal effects and exposure, yesterday testified he could hear the thump of the Lady Pam's propeller as he passed under the vessel after it struck and sank the yacht Turanga on which he was a passenger.

Frank R. Stuart, owner of the smaller vessel, is claiming $9,000 for the loss of the yacht and damages for exposure.

Stuart's vessel was struck by the Lady Pam in English Bay about a mile and one-half from Point Atkinson on June 13 last.

Robinson said that after passing under the hull of the coastal steamship he came to the surface, and he and Stuart assisted McLaren to a lighted buoy, which had been thrown from the Lady Pam.

They were picked up by the crew of the larger vessel.

Famous Yacht Changes Hands

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP)—The yacht Venetia, famed as a raider and patrol boat in the first Great War, will shortly be seen in Lake Erie. Capt. Scott Misener of Port Colborne, head of the Sarnia Steamship Company, has purchased the craft from the estate of James Playfair, Midland, Ont.

The Venetia is credited with sinking the German submarine that in 1915 had sent the Lusitania to the bottom with a loss of 1,154 lives. Decorated by British government, the boat was awarded two gold stripes which still adorn her stack.

The yacht was used as an auxiliary craft by the United States government on the Atlantic patrol. She was built at Leith, Scotland, in 1903, and is 226 feet long with a 27-foot beam. She has a gross tonnage of 368.84.

The Venetia was bought by the late John Spreckles, Pacific coast sugar importer, and sailed the waters of the Pacific until 1917, when she was commandeered by the U.S. for war purposes.

Tug Captain Lost

CHARLEVOIX, Mich. (AP)—Capt. John Oling lost his life and two others were rescued early today when the tug Badger State foundered in Lake Michigan during a 40-mile gale which drove snow and rain before it.

The freighter Carl D. Bradley picked up the survivors and the

Wheat

WINNIPEG (CP)—Despite huge export sales of Canadian wheat, little headway was made by wheat futures prices on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. At all times there appeared to be sufficient wheat on offer to meet the buying orders and quotations held within a narrow range throughout the session before closing 1/4 higher to 1/2 cent lower, November at 69 1/2, December 69 1/2, May 74 1/2 and July 76 1/2 cents.

The sales of Canadian wheat to foreign buyers were placed at more than 3,000,000 bushels for the day. The excellent overseas transactions were believed to have been made up chiefly of the top northern grades for shipment from New York, St. Lawrence River ports and the maritime seaboard.

The pleasing export sales also were reflected in the cash wheat pit, where export interests were credited with taking appreciable quantities stocked in eastern positions. Most of cash business was transacted in the top northern grades with No. 1 northern predominating.

Pepys Warned King About London's Fire

The Great Fire of London is one of the famous fires in history. It took place in 1666, one year after the coming of the Great Plague, and before the plague had been quite stamped out.

Scene at Great Fire of London

Samuel Pepys was there, and day by day, he wrote in his diary about the things he saw. Here, in shortened form, is his story:

"On the night of September 1, some of our maids stayed up late to get things ready for a feast the next day. Jane called us about 3 in the morning to tell us of seeing a great fire in the City."

"So I arose and went to the window. I saw the fire in the distance, but thought it far enough away, so went to bed again."

"About 7 o'clock, I awoke and looked out of the window again, and saw the fire, but it was far further away. Jane came and told me that she had heard that more than 300 houses had been burned down in Fish Street, by London Bridge."

"So I walked to the Tower (of London) and there saw the houses at the end of the bridge all on fire, and a huge fire on the other end of the bridge."

"The Lieutenant of the Tower told me it began this morning in the King's baker's house in Pudding Lane. So I went down to the water side and got a boat, and had a closer view of the fire. Everyone was trying to take away his goods, to throw them into boats or into the river. Poor people stayed in their homes until the fire touched them, and then ran to boats or to stairways leading down to the river."

"The wind was high and was spreading the flames to the City. I saw no one trying to put it out."

"So I went to White Hall and told the King and the Duke of York what I had seen. I told His Majesty that unless he ordered houses to be pulled down, nothing could stop the fire."

"The King commanded me to go to the Lord Mayor and tell him to spare no houses, but to pull them down every place in the path of the fire. At last I found the Lord Mayor in Canning St. To the King's message, he cried, 'What can I do? I am tired out. I have been pulling down houses, but the fire overtakes us faster than we can do it.'"

HOROSCOPE

Thursday, November 9

Good and evil planetary aspects contend today. There is a sign encouraging irritability and temper. Wise self-control should be practiced.

This is a day in which families bear patiently the idiosyncrasies of members. The morning is fairly promising to parents. There is a sign presaging unrest and discontent in the younger generation which will reflect world influences destructive to national traditions. Moral rearmament will be needed among persons of all ages.

As holiday shopping gets under way the inclination toward generosity will be strong. The seers stress the wisdom of looking ahead into a year which is to bring many financial anxieties; 1941 is to bring extraordinary economic hazards. Older persons will harbor fears which they should not make vocal, as warnings will be useless in this period of world uncertainty.

Complicated and contradictory considerations will affect United States neutrality policies. It will be harassed by amazing goads toward naval and military action. Politicians are warned to avoid prejudices or national sympathies.

There will be unexpected developments in Europe that will ultimately favor the Allies, although serious reverses may be reported. Treachery and misrepresentation are prognosticated on the part of Russia and the Reich. A political crisis in France has been predicted for next month, which censorship may conceal.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of good luck in business as well as love affairs. For many inheritances are forecast. Health should be watched.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly clever, discouragements may prevent and able to push their progress many from reaching their ultimate to a certain point. Last-minute mate goal.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

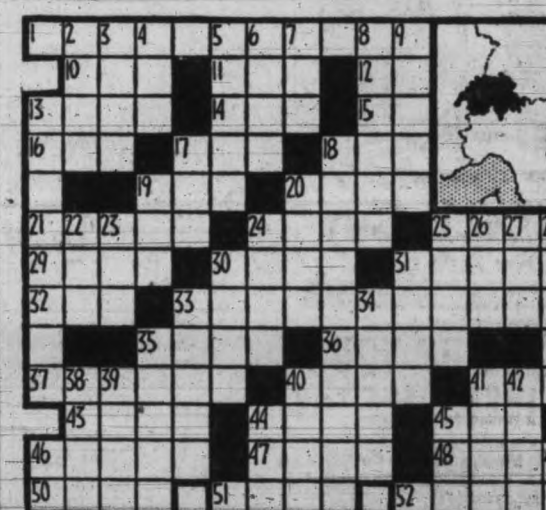

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—What am I to do with a man who says that he can't go on with his business, home and friends if I give him up? He is a married man and manager of the office in which I am employed. He tells me that he has never loved before or cared for anyone as much as he does for me, and that he wouldn't hurt me or get me into trouble for the world. He doesn't do a thing all day but hang around me and attempt to talk to me and beg me to love him as he loves me. Please tell me what to do?
ALWAYS BLUE.

Answer: Get away, my child, while the going is good. Don't stay on in the danger zone because you don't want to give up your job. You will lose that as soon as the office scandal gets known, and then you won't even have a recommendation to take away with you.

Don't listen to the man who tells you that he can't go on without you and that he will go to the devil if you give him up. That is one of the oldest and most effective lines of the seducer. And it is the lowest and meanest, because it appeals to the mother instinct to protect and save the weakling who hangs on to her skirts and makes her feel responsible for him. No woman can save that kind of a man. No woman can furnish a backbone for a spineless man. No woman can put energy into a lazy one. Every man has to save himself or else be lost. And, anyway, you were not designed to be a prop.

And don't believe in the promises of the big bad wolf that he won't hurt you. No married man can have an affair with a girl without wrecking her reputation.

AN UNPATRIOTIC SPEECH

To the Editor:—What a horribly unpatriotic speech from Mrs. Dorothy Steeves. Thank goodness she does not represent all the women of Canada. Is it the incompetence of the amateur or the effect of the subtle insidious propaganda of which we have been warned? Apparently we must teach some people what democracy is. They think it is a place where anybody can say and do what they like.

If Mr. Winch can be instrumental in helping to bring about better after-war conditions for our soldiers to hold in trust for them and their sons, according to their capabilities instead of letting married women have them, he will have fulfilled a glorious destiny. This can be done only by working with the democratic laws, our birthright and not by sacrificing it for a mess of political rivalry.

How can there be peace between nations if the people themselves cannot agree.

Long live our King and democracy. To understand is to appreciate.

GRACE JONES.

BRITISHERS WILL NOT FAIL

To the Editor:—One feels that it must have been an interesting spectacle in the Legislature as Dorothy Steeves and Harold Winch, with the rest of the small band of progressives faced the securely entrenched supporters and representatives of "things as they are."

It was, apparently, the case of a small handful of courageous men and women, whose vision is fixed upon a future when the real causes of war will be removed, while over against them were

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go!

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Harsh poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sick and the world looks pink.

A new blood movement does not always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Steadily refuse anything else. 25c.

"Lapt Like a Top After One Dose of Buckley's Mixture"

Mother, follow this lady's example and use Buckley's Mixture when any member of your family has a cough, cold, gripple, bronchitis or whooping cough. She says: "Last night my son, aged 11, was coughing terribly and could not get to sleep. I gave him a dose of Buckley's Mixture with honey and he slept the night through. This morning his cough is quite loose."—Mrs. B. Jones, Verdun, P.Q.

Your experience will be just as satisfactory. Buckley's Mixture is the standby in 3 out of 5 Canadian homes. It eases the cough, almost instantly, softens phlegm, soothes raw air passages, helps correct over-acidity—relieves you of coughs and colds in record time.

B.C. Legislature

Court, Prison Reform Urged

Court and prison reform, and greater attention to human welfare in provincial institutions, were advocated by two C.C.F. speakers in the Legislature yesterday, as the party discarded the war issue for the afternoon and got down to domestic questions.

Mrs. Laura Jamieson, former juvenile court judge of Burnaby, making her maiden speech as member of Vancouver Centre, proposed reorganization of the juvenile court system and a new approach to youthful criminal offenders.

As an illustration of the way in which the present system turns youth to crime she cited the case of Arthur Rennie, sentenced to hang, and Dolores Brooks, sentenced to life imprisonment for their part in the murder of Wood Dack, Chinese, in Vancouver.

Rennie, she said, was a youth with the mentality of a 12-year-old. The girl Brooks, half Indian, was a product of dreadful slum conditions who never had a chance.

The courts, she urged, should be used to guard and protect such young people, rather than to blot out their lives forever.

Rather than adopting a "make the punishment fit the crime" attitude, courts should be equipped to deal with the psychological and sociological problems presented by prisoners.

Juvenile courts attempted to meet the situation in this way, but their influence had not been felt in the higher courts because the 26 juvenile courts were not coordinated, and in many cases police magistrates handled the juvenile cases.

Conditions as they now arise must be faced differently, as Britain realizes only too well, and nothing can be accomplished by threatening with the "rack" all who have the courage to express their candid, though not always necessarily correct, opinions.

Dragon methods have never accomplished much with people of the British calibre and most assuredly would they do so less today.

When there is a real issue to be faced, the British people have proved repeatedly that they are quite willing to face it, but coercion or force only seems to make them stubborn.

Masonic Concert For Church Funds

A program of merit has been arranged by the Victoria Masonic Choir for the concert to be given in the Fairfield United Church on November 15 in aid of the church funds. Cyril C. Warren, conductor, has been rehearsing the choir for several weeks in preparation for this concert. George Peaker, organist of First United Church, will be the accompanist.

Musical numbers for the choir are as follows: "Song of the Jolly Roger," by Candish; "There Be None of Beauty's Daughters," by Brewer; "If All the Seas Were One Sea," by Davies; "Fain Would I Change That Note," by Vaughan Williams; "Keep a Goin'," by Jacobsen, and "Where'er You Walk, with Baritone solo, by Handel; "Hunting Song," by Jacob and "The Tide Rises, the Tide Falls," by Carse; "De Sandman" and "Close Thine Eyes," by Rees-Davies; "A Song of the Armada," by Chudleigh-Candish; "Hush," by Neidinger and "The Shadow March," by Protheroe.

In addition to the choral numbers there will be solos and duets and a group of instrumental numbers.

Motor Carriers Put Under Board

Legislation which places the rationalization of trucking, freighting, and passenger transportation by motor carriers in the hands of the Public Utilities Commission was in the Legislature yesterday by Premier Pattullo.

Known as the "Motor Carrier Act," the new measure supercedes the old Part Five of the Highway Act and gives the commission the widest powers of licensing carriers, supervising their rates, investigating their books and controlling their financial set-up.

One of the chief purposes of the legislation is reported to be to make possible stricter enforcement of freight rates charged by trucking concerns, particularly on the Cariboo Road, where, it is alleged, carriers are cutting rates secretly and offering unfair competition to the Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

It covers "any person operating a public vehicle, a limited vehicle, or a private freight vehicle and includes any person who is the holder of a license."

Full explanation of the new measure will be given by the government when it comes up for second reading. Meantime, government spokesmen said its principles are the same as the old Highway Act, except that administration is placed in the commission's hands.

The commission is given authority, subject to the government's approval, to make regulations on 27 different phases of the motor carrier business.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES FOR CONVENTION

All members of the Victoria School Board were named to represent Victoria at the British Columbia School Trustees' Convention, to be held in Vancouver next Monday and Tuesday, it was decided at a special meeting of the Victoria School Board last night.

There will probably be some who will be unable to attend because of other business, and it was for this reason that the entire board was delegated. No instructions were given to possible representatives by the board. They will deal with the agenda of the convention as they see fit, and will discuss business at the convention.

A report was received from Trustee Walter Stenland, chairman of the building and grounds committee, in which he said that the committee expects to have a balance of $1,500 at the end of the year. Trustee Stenland said that all work scheduled for this year had been carried out as planned and that unscheduled work to the value of $2,000 had also been done. This should reduce the appropriation for next year.

The school board decided to allow the Sir James Douglas P.T.A. to use the school auditorium one night a week for the use of the badminton club. The P.T.A. had requested its use in a letter to the board. The trustees decided that if responsibility could be fixed with regard to the building or cleaning to be done, the board would allow the organization to use the hall.

Little Theatre Aids Patriotic Funds

The Victoria Little Theatre Association at its annual meeting unanimously decided that one half of the proceeds of all productions this season should be donated to patriotic funds. This policy will be carried out in connection with the production of the famous mystery comedy "The Bishop Misbehaves," which will be staged at the Empire Theatre December 15.

The production is under the direction of James Magrath, with a strong cast headed by Alec McGown as the bishop.

Secret Deal Reported By Combines Investigator

OTTAWA (CP)—The combine of jobbers and shippers of B.C. fruit and vegetables found by F. A. McGregor, combines investigator, was formed, according to his report released today, in 1936, when Western Grocers Limited, through Dominion Fruit Limited, purchased half of the shares of the Lander Company Limited of Vernon, B.C., a holding company which controlled Sales Service Limited, representing the second largest group of fruit shippers in the Okanagan Valley in British Columbia.

"The relationship," according to the report, "was secretly established and maintained, and growers using these shipping agencies are said to have known nothing of it until it was disclosed at a meeting in Vernon, B.C., in August, 1938. Such a relationship between jobbers and shippers is stated to correspond closely with that between jobbers and brokers which was declared to be unlawful in the Nash fruit combine case in British Columbia 14 years ago. Specific legislation was enacted in British Columbia at that time designed to prevent the recurrence of the practice of jobbers exercising control over agents of the growers. The fundamental objection to this relationship is stated in the report as follows:

"The interest of a jobber who buys fruit and vegetables from a shipper is adverse to that of the grower whose products are being bought. If the jobber has a substantial interest in the shipper, the shipper cannot be expected to exercise independent control as an agent for his grower principal, he is placed in the position of having conflicting responsibilities."

A close relationship between jobbers and brokers is also disclosed. In an agreement made in 1936 whereby the C. H. Robinson Company Limited, which is controlled by the Nash Fruit organization in the United States, agreed to pay to Western Grocers all but a slight portion of the profits on the Robinson brokerage business in Canada. These payments are characterized as "little less than an outright gift" from broker to jobber. On these arrangements the commissioner comments:

"For the broker to argue that he may dispose of his profits as he sees fit is to ignore the very special relationship that exists between his principals (the growers and shippers) and himself as their agent. . . . The fact that jobbers have secured substantial portions of the earnings of the brokerage agencies through which they buy is evidence of the inordinate strength of the bargaining position of these jobbers in the distribution of fruits and vegetables in Western Canada."

DANGER OF COMBINE
The danger of too great a combination of trading power in the hands of a single company controlling 30 wholesale branches in the prairies, and having close relations with several hundred retail houses as well as with important fruit shipping and brokerage agencies, is pointed out in the following paragraph:

"It is in the public interest generally that no single private enterprise shall obtain too great a control upon the sources of necessary products or of the facilities for their distribution. Through controlling the largest single block of wholesale houses and connections with a very substantial number of retail outlets, and now by the investment in a company supervising and in part controlling the shipment of almost 20 per cent of the Okanagan valley's supplies, Western Grocers Limited has achieved a primary position in the distribution of British Columbia fruits and vegetables in Western Canada."

That Western Grocers Limited has not reached the monopoly stage is recognized, however, in the succeeding sentence:

"The presence of two large competitors and other smaller wholesalers limits, however, the extent to which it can maintain any complete control over supplies and prices."

PRICE DISCOUNTS
No price agreements justifying an adverse finding were found to exist amongst the three major jobbers, Western Grocers, Consolidated Fruit and Macdonalds Consolidated. Local discussions on prices were held, but on this subject the report concludes:

"In the matter of common price arrangements among jobbers it was clear on the one hand that discussions were frequent, and that some common understandings had been reached, among branch managers of wholesale houses in certain centres. On the other hand, the extent and effectiveness of such understandings were greatly limited by the nature of the fruit and vegetable distributing business and by the wide discretion allowed to individual branch managers to alter prices as occasion demanded. Discussions of selling prices amongst jobbers appear to have resulted at most in 'marks to shoot at' and not in price agreements to which participants gave real support. The vigorously independent position of Macdonalds Consolidated Limited also made impossible any general agreement to fix common wholesale prices of fruits or vegetables. Specific instructions from the company's head office required Macdonalds Consolidated managers to refrain from agreeing with competing branch houses on the fixing of common wholesale prices, and in general those instructions were followed. After an endeavor to give due weight to these considerations, the present conclusion is that no breach of the Combines Investigation Act in the matter of price agreements can be said to have taken place."

The commissioner found also that there was no evidence to support the claim that the major jobbers had combined to prevent independents from participating in pool supplies or to impose special trade deals upon British Columbia fruit and vegetable shippers. Moreover no evidence was secured showing that the wholesalers had taken any joint action to reduce unduly volume of their purchases of British Columbia fruits or vegetables with a view to depressing prices to the growers or to increasing prices to retailers or consumers.

GOVERNMENT CONTROL
The report refers to parallel developments of government control on behalf of growers in British Columbia and concentration of control by jobbers in the prairie provinces.

"It becomes apparent, then, that in the production and distribution of fruits and vegetables in western Canada a dual movement has developed: On the one hand the creation of governmental supervision of production and marketing which has given to that part of the industry the character of a quasi-publicly operated monopoly, and on the other the rise of three organizations whose branch houses and total tonnage almost completely dominate the distribution of fruits and vegetables on the prairies. To this parallel development must be added the increasing control of two of these major jobbers over retail outlets and the effect of such control upon the reduction of the number of independently owned channels through which fruits and vegetables may reach the general public."

DANGER TO CONSUMERS
The possibility of consumer interests being injured by a combination of growers and distributors is discussed in the following passage:

"Another danger to the public which must be made clear is the possibility of a combination between growers acting as a unit and distributors acting as a unit for the purpose of exploiting the consumer through smaller volume and higher prices. This is a potential danger, but it is clear that willingness to pursue such a course is not lacking among some western fruit growers, shippers and distributors. It would be unfortunate if the present public good will towards the grower were sacrificed, and the many sound measures possible to further the fruit growing industry imperilled, by the development of any such

Refuse Part In By-law Motion

Refusal of three Esquimalt councillors to vote on a by-law amendment motion at last night's meeting of the council prompted a sharp reprimand by Reeve Alex Lockley, who claimed that they were "remiss in their duty," with the result that two of the refusers returned to the question.

The situation arose from a petition signed by property owners near Pioneer Street and Old Esquimalt Road requesting that the by-law making the district an apartment zone be amended in order that a service station could be built in the area.

A request to build a station on the corner of Pioneer Street and Old Esquimalt Road was received by the council a month ago. The council at that time refused to amend the by-law which would permit the station to be constructed.

Three of the councillors—Albert Heald, G. R. Guillemaud and J. A. P. Christensen—felt that they were directly or indirectly connected personally with the question and refused to vote on the motion of Councillor R. G. Humphreys that the by-law be amended making the district a garage zone.

"As representatives of the people I cannot see how you can refuse to vote on the issue," Reeve Lockley said. "It is my opinion that you will be guilty of a serious offence if you do not vote."

A letter was read from the solicitor of the municipality which the council felt did not state whether or not the three councillors were in a position to vote on the issue. The opinion of the solicitor had been requested by the councillors.

After lengthy discussion, Councillors Christensen and Guillemaud returned to the question and the motion was passed three votes to one. Councillors Humphreys, Christensen and Neil Fraser voted for, while Councillor Guillemaud was absent. Councillor T. Hadfield was absent from the meeting. Councillor Heald did not vote.
